2 Women, Man Die In Wreck

Mishap Occurs Near Bucyrus

BUCYRUS—Three Galion residents were killed instantly about 2 a. m. today when the automobile in which they were riding rammed into the rear of a semi-trailer truck at a truck stop, Point Place, three miles west of here.

The state highway patrol identified the dead as Miss Anna L. Carr, 44, the driver, Miss Rita Weithman, 29, and Angelo Cirinelli, 45.

Patrol reports said the automobile crashed into the truck after it had slowed down to pass another truck parked along U. S. Route 30-N. The second truck had stopped for repairs, the patrol said.

The force of the impact knocked the rear wheels off the truck, but the driver was not injured. Patrolmen cleared the driver of the moving truck of blame and said he was proceeding slowly and with caution.

The Galion victims had been visiting friends near Upper Sandusky last night and were returning home when the accident occurred.

Mr. Cirinelli operated an overcoat - manufacturing plant, employing 50 workers, at 525 East Walnut street in Galion and did contract work for the Ohio Overcoat company here. Born in Italy on May 10, 1903, he came to the United States when 13 years of age and to Galion from Cincinnati five years ago. He attended St Joseph Catholic church in Galion.

LOS ANGELES—(UP)—Jerry Manlove, 64-year-old mail clerk, was stabbed critically because he refused to buy a woman a beer.

Manlove stopped in a downtown bar last night on his way home from work. A tall, dark woman identified only as "Lucey" sat down beside him and ordered a beer. She finished it and asked Manlove to buy her another.

Manlove walked out the door. The woman followed, drew a long knife and stabbed him in the back, police said. Then she disappeared into the crowd.

Rio Treaty Ceremony Scheduled

Pan-American Union Starts

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The American republics lined up today to throw their collective power behind a pact designed to protect this hemisphere against any aggressor.

A special ceremony at noon (EST) will signal the start of the mutual defense compact drafted last year by 19 nations at Rio De Janeiro. Costa Rican Ambassador Mario Esquivel will bring the historic agreement into full force by depositing his country's ratification with the Pan American union.

Aimed at shielding the Americas from pole to pole, the treaty was negotiated in August 1947 at the Rio conference, climaxing years of efforts to unite the new world nations for self-defense.

President Truman told the delegates then that the accord was a model for international cooperation. And it is expected to serve in that capacity when work starts on the proposed Atlantic pact—which would tie the United States and Canada into a mutual defense agreement with the Western European union.

The inter - American treaty, which is based on the United Nations charter, provides:

1. Immediate military assistance by all of the American states to any member attacked by another hemisphere union. The foreign ministers are empowered to issue a "cease fire" order and to spell out what further help should be given the nation under attack.

2 If a member is attacked by an outside power all the treaty signatories will hold immediate consultations to decide what steps are needed to safeguard the hemisphere.

Reveal Koch Case Probe

WASHINGTON — (UP) — The Senate investigating committee holds that Gen. Lucius D. Clay has authority to reimpose the life sentence on nazi war criminal Else Koch, it was learned today.

The committee will so report to the full Senate later this month, according to usually reliable sources.

Army Secretary Kenneth C. Royall has said the army is powerless to alter Frau Koch's sentence now. Army reviewing officers found the life imprisonment term "excessive," and reduced it to four years. Clay, as American military commander in Europe, approved the reduction last September.

The Senate committee headed by Sen. Homer Ferguson (R-Mich) is investigating the army's handling of the case of the notorious "Belle of Buchenwald." Ferguson said the committee's report will be filed before the year's end.

Frau Koch, 41-year-old widow of a former Buchenwald commander, was convicted of contributing to the atrocities at the nazi prison camp. She was accused of having lampshades, gloves and bookcovers made from tattooed human skin.

Mobilize Berlin Police

Acts to Protect Sunday Election

BERLIN — (UP) — West Berlin's full force of 10,000 German police was being mobilized today to block any communist attempt to break up the Sunday municipal elections which Soviet authorities outlawed in their sector.

Communist agitators had sought for three days to break up election rallies. West sector newspapers published warnings that they probably would try to interfere with the balloting of an administration revealing the newly established government for the Soviet quarter.

The Russian military government officially recognized the new communist puppet regime, announcing it would get all the Soviet help it needed to carry out its tasks.

The final partition of Berlin into two cities crystallized further when the western powers announced pending financial reforms. They would withdraw western support from the Soviet mark and let it fall to its own value, already about one-quarter that of the west mark.

ASSEMBLY MEETS

The western or legally elected city assembly met again today in extraordinary session to carry on plans for setting up new headquarters. It shifted over into West Berlin after the communist move, which resulted in assembly officials being turned back from the city hall in the Russian sector.

Ten election rallies were scheduled in West Berlin today, and three more tomorrow.

The British-licensed newspaper Telegraaf warned that the communists were making a strong bid to scare Berliners away from the polls.

Reports from the Soviet zone, it said, indicated additional police from nearby towns were being brought into the Russian sector to reinforce the police there.

Mercury Going Up

The temperature climbed to a pleasant 47 degrees at noon today and the weatherman promised even warmer weather for tomorrow.

As in other populated areas of the state, haze and smoke settled over the city early today because of the still air.

Overcast skies followed by rain was the forecast for Saturday.

Weather experts explained the mild conditions resulted from a warm air mass coming into the state from the gulf region. There was little change predicted for tonight.

The weather bureau's five-day outlook follows:

Rain Saturday night or Sunday Rain or snow Wednesday. Total precipitation one-half inch. Colder by Sunday night and on Monday with slowly rising trend Tuesday and Wednesday Temperatures will average about normal for the period.

Negotiations To End Fight Are Rumored

By PETER LIU

NANKING—(INS)—A gigantic battle involving 750,000 or more troops churned toward a climax today on central China's historic Anhwei plains where communist armies strove to open the last gateway to Nanking.

Some 350,000 Nationalist troops were being compressed into two steadily narrowing pockets while another 75,000 to 80,000 sustained the weight of a Red drive on Pengpu, only 100 miles northwest of the capital.

Using the newly-captured communications pivot of Suchow as a funnel, the communists were reported pouring fresh hordes into the mighty struggle raging on three sectors for control of China's ancient heartland.

Two communist armies comprising 350,000 battle-seasoned troops were hammering at Nationalist forces on the approaches to the wide Yangtze river on whose south bank Nanking lies.

Some 25 miles south of Red-occupied Suchow a quarter million troops of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's 2nd, 13th and 16th army groups were being squeezed on all sides by encircling communists above Suhsien.

Farther south, another 100,000 Nationalist troops of Gen. Huang Wei's 12th army group were under incessant pressure on all sides within a 10-square-mile ring near Kuchen between the Hwei and Fei rivers.

(Reuters' quoted "well-informed" sources in Shanghai as believing that the Chinese Nationalists will seek negotiations with the communists if more aid is not granted by the United States.

(Reuters quoted the sources as saying that failure of Madame Chiang Kai-shek's mission to Washington would cause Premier Sun Fo to abandon efforts to form a cabinet and make overtures to the communists.)

The communists claimed in a broadcast that they were gradually annihilating the trapped government units in the Kuchen sector, 130 miles northwest of Nanking.

CLAIM REDS MAULED

The government however asserted in a communique that one-eyed Gen. Liu Po-Cheng's communist army in that area had been "severely mauled" in two days of Nationalist ground counter-attacks and aerial bombing.

Some of the Red contingents were reported withdrawing from the Kuchen-Pengpu area toward the northeast along the Pukow-Tientsin railroad. But another source said these units were apparently moving up to increase the pressure on the southern side of the circle drawn around the 250,000 government troops between Suhsien and Suchow.

Pengpu's defenders were also in apparent danger of encirclement as Gen. Chen Yi's communist army sent spearheads westward for attempted crossings of a bend in the Hwei.

Communist forces are reported to have scored a major victory on the outskirts of Kalgan, the gateway from Peiping, in North Chine to Mongolia.

President To Retain Same Aides

No Changes Slated Yet

WASHINGTON— (AP) —President Truman is making no changes in his cabinet at this time.

That's what he said yesterday at his first White House news conference since the election. But he left the way open for some changes later by saying he reserves the right to shuffle the cabinet membership at his pleasure.

The news conference was a lively one. His November 2 election triumph was a major topic. Mr. Truman said he is proud he won with neither the 47 electoral votes of New York nor the 38 which southern Democrats gave to the States' Rights party. As for those southern votes, the President dismissed moves to have them included in his electoral total. He doesn't want them, he said, adding that he is not angry with anyone.

Mr. Truman also set at rest speculation as to whether he will confer with Madame Chiang Kai-Shek. The President said an appointment has been arranged, but he would not say when it is.

As for whether General Douglas MacArthur would be sent from Japan to China to help the beleaguered Chinese Nationalists, Mr. Truman had a blunt answer: No—period.

And he already had stated the administration's policy on China, he said, so he was having nothing to say on that again.

Then, chuckling, he took a couple of digs at his Republican opponent in the election, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York.

Fill 'Er Up

Clear Fork Run-In To Take 3 Months

The $440,000 Clear Fork reservoir will be filled with water sometime next year.

Carl Walker, consulting engineer, Jennings-Lawrence, Inc., of Columbus, said today that it would take about three months for the reservoir to be filled when the gates are closed.

The reservoir will hold approximately four billion, 400 million gallons of water and will cover an area of 1,125 cares.

"We took weather bureau records and computed how long it would take the reservoir to be filled in the driest spring. The survey was based on the fact that a 35 square miles area will drain into the reservoir.

"Knowing the amount of rainfall we can compute just how much water can be expected to flow into the reservoir each year," Walker said.

Water from the dam will not flow into Mansfield for sometime, however. Units to be completed before that will be possible include a low-lift pumping station at the site of the dam, a raw water pipe line, and a filtration plant to be located at the site of the high lift pumping station at the foot of Cook road.

The filtration plant will be about one mile northeast of the dam

More water will fill Mansfield's mains, however, before the entire Clear Fork project is complete

As soon as the high lift pumping station and 24 inch pipeline from the pumping station to the Woodland reservoir are complete, an additional 1,000,000 gallons per day from the Maxwell well fields will flow to the city.

The pipeline is more than 95 percent complete and the pumping station is more than half finished.

Alabama Jury Answers Plea For Justice

WETUMPKA, AL. — (P) — an all-white jury trying a white man for raping a young Negro woman answered a prosecutor's plea that it proved a Negro "can get justice" in an Alabama court.

The jurors, in short order, found John C Howard jr., operator of a garage and a mattress factory, guilty and sent him off to prison for 45 years.

They wanted to go even further—fix it so Howard could not get a pardon or parole. But Circuit Judge Oakley Melton told them not "to worry about" that.

Decorations Ban Eased

Chief Permits Use Of Treated Trees

Fire Chief L. J. Steele has OK'd the use of Christmas trees and other combustible decorations in public buildings provided they have been treated with a flame retardant approved by him.

Modifying an earlier order banning evergreens in public buildings, Chief Steele last night told a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce Fire Prevention committee only those flame retardants actually tested by him would be approved.

He already has given approval to a substance prepared by a Mansfield florist. The committee witnessed a demonstration showing how combustion had been slowed down by the treatment. While the treated decorations still burned, the intensity of the flame was considerably lessened

Such treatment, although it does not entirely eliminate the possibility of fire, prevents flash fires in Christmas decorations, the florist pointed out.

Yesterday a representative of a Toledo firm demonstrated a flame retardant at the fire station Steele was not satisfied with its performance on evergreens, however, although he admitted the solution had been effective on cloth The demonstrator said he would supply another substance which the fire chief could test today.

The fire prevention committee outlined its plans for a Christmas campaign. They include distribution of 3,000 leaflets on the hazards of combustible decorations, and the use of tags on all Christmas trees to be sold in Mansfield The tags give instructions on means of preventing fires.

Now a Pound's a Pound!

New Standards Hit Chinese Measuring

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS

WASHINGTON —(UP)— Is it bad newspaper manners to go back to the year 2700 B. C. for the first sentence of a good story?

If so, I am guilty.

It was about that time that Huang-Ti, founder of the Chinese empire, fixed the first standard for weights and measures. The first anywhere so far as I know.

The first such "scientist," an underling of the emperor, set a standard of length like this: he took a hollow bamboo stick--or rather a lot of them and whacked each with another stick and measured off the length by the sound they gave. For a baritone stick a certain length. For a tenor another. It wasn't very accurate, to be sure, but it served at the time.

The same great mind, presumably, was smart enough to take another hollow bamboo and fill it with rice—between knots in the reed. He measured that one for a standard—also quite simply—by filling each hollow with 1,200 grains of rice This was taken as the unit of capacity. A hundred of these units formed what eventually became the ancient litre.

The weight of 1,200 grains of rice was taken as the unit of mass and 16 times this weight was what was known as a "pound," but not the pound we know today.

But to come up to now. Chinese measures at long last have been standardized

China is one of the few large nation's which do not belong to the international conference of weights and measures, which has headquarters at Sevres, France. But the Chinese international traffic in rice and in bamboo poles for pole-vaulting purposes ran into so many snags that they finally sent their tables of weights and measures to National Bureau of Standards to be calibrated

As a result—as of today--a kilogram is a kilogram and a meter is a meter around the world.

Court Indicts Noted Actor

KANSAS CITY, KANS, —(INS) —Rex Ingram, 53, noted for playing the role of "De Lawd" in the play "Green Pastures", was under indictment on a white slavery charge today.

The indictment was returned yesterday by a Kansas City federal grand jury and further charged Ingram with two counts of mailing indecent literature to Jeannette Hughes, 15-year-old Salina, Kans., girl.

The jury charged that Ingram induced the girl to fly from her home to New York City for the purpose of persuading her to indulge in an illicit relationship.

U. S. Diplomats' Families Take Refuge In Manila

(Compiled From Wire Services)

MANILA—Thirty-nine dependents of American diplomatic officials stationed in communist-threatened Nanking are refugees in the Philippines today.

They arrived late yesterday at Manila's international airport aboard two U. S. Navy transport planes from the Chinese capital.

The wives and children of the American diplomats were brought from the airport in U. S. Army buses to their new homes on the projected campus of the Philippine university at Diliman, outside Manila.

Thirty-nine dependents of other American diplomats elsewhere in China were brought safely in navy transport planes yesterday to Nichols field.

Another batch of diplomatic dependents is scheduled to land in the Philippines Monday.

In Shanghai, China's Nationalist government suddenly requisitioned 50 steamships "for emergency use" today, heightening speculation that it will move the capital south from Nanking.

In Nanking, Hollington Tong, spokesman for the hard-pressed Chinese government, said today he had resigned Tong has been the government's director of information since April, 1947. He is one of the closest associates of President and Madame Chiang Kai-shek.

In Washington, Madame Chiang Kai-shek was assured today of full opportunity to formally plead with both President Truman and Secretary of State Marshall for American aid to save China.

The first lady of China visited Marshall late Thursday at Walter Reed hospital.

Dying Child Has Christmas

CHARLESTON, S. C —(UP)— Little Sallie Pender looked longingly at the new Christmas dress hanging by her bed today and asked when she could wear it instead of her hospital gown.

The four-year-old girl's parents and her doctor didn't have the heart to tell her never. Neither did they have the heart to let the tiny brown-eyed blonde girl miss having her Christmas this year. Sallie has cancer, and doctors doubt that she will live until Dec. 25.

So last night was Christmas for Sallie. Her family and close friends gave her a big party at the hospital.

Registers For Blind

DAYTON —(AP)— Blind persons now can use cash registers in their businesses without memorizing the keys.

The National Cash Register company announced development of keys with braille or raised, characters.

The idea already had been worked out on small registers, the company said, but D. W. Lawrence, blind operator of a super-market at Westville, N. J., needed one of those big "multiple item" jobs that do everything but sing bass.

Keys were made up for him, the company said, and now can be had by any blind business man.

Gyro Plans Ladies' Party

The Gyro club's annual Ladies' Christmas party will be held Wednesday, Dec. 15, officers of the club announced today.

Acting Postmaster Curtis L. Ford described the outmoded Mansfield post office to the club at its meeting Wednesday night at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

The post office was originally built to serve 21,000 people, and it is now serving 60,000, Ford said. The mail volume is six times as great as it was originally, but the same plant and equipment are still in use, he continued.

Four of the mailtrucks in use in Mansfield are 18 years old, he told the club.

Labor Board Rules Disciplining O. K.

WASHINGTON —(UP)— The National Labor relations board has ruled that an employer can discipline workers who strike in violation of a no-strike agreement.

In the broadest decision of its kind yet issued, the board's majority held that the Taft-Hartley law "can best be effectuated by requiring employes to honor their no-strike commitments."

Ohio Student Writes Short Story; Wins $1,000 Prize

COLUMBUS, — (INS) — An English class assignment at Ohio State university has made Carl Moon, 31, richer by $1,000.

The assignment on the preparation of a short story resulted in "The Victory," which will appear in the December issue of the Atlantic Monthly.

The initial idea came to Moon more than a year ago when he ote a 500-word description in an English course at the university. His instructor, Mrs. Bess Stein, now of the University of Washington, told him it had possibilities and encouraged him to develop it into a short story.

He worked at manuscript for more than a ear and submitted the 5,000-word story in a contest sponsored by the Cilumbus chapter of the National Society of Arts and Letters. I. won first prize and an award of $50.

Moon then submitted the manuscript to Atlantic Monthly, which conducts a regular contest for "first" stories by American writers. It was accepted and the quthor received a check for $250.

The magazine's contest also provides a grand prize for the best story submitted in a six-months period and "The Victory" again was selected with $750 more going to Moon.

The author is the son of Mrs. George Wasel of McClure, Henry county. Moon is working toward a master's degree in English and then contemplates teaching.

3—In Memoriam

IN MEMORY of Ensign Joseph Freiheit, killed December 1, 1944
When evening shades are falling
And we sit in quiet, alone
To our hearts there comes a longing
If he only could come home
Friends may think we have forgotten
When at times they see us smile
But they little know the heartache
Our smiles hide all the while

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Will Ask Probe On Building

Auditor To Act On State Office

COLUMBUS —(AP)— State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson said today he would request a legislative investigation "of all negotiations and transactions in connection with the proposed new state office building for which $5,000,000 has been appropriated."

Although Ferguson did not say it, presumably the request will be made to the new Democratic controlled legislature which convenes Jan. 3. A special session of the present Republican controlled body is scheduled for next Monday.

Ferguson also said he had given orders to withhold payment of all vouchers issued against the appropriation by the Department of Public Works. The auditor said he is withholding payment on three vouchers for $200 each issued as additional compensation to three members of the Columbus real estate board which had appraised the site for the proposed new building.

Ferguson added the real estate board already had been paid $1,267 for making the appraisal. The additional compensation was for a letter detailing the manner in which they arrived at the valuation of $576,400 for the site.

He also recounted that he had voted against release of the $576,400 by the controlling board to pay for the proposed site.

Ferguson said he had voted against release by the controlling board of an additional $43,000 to Public Works Director George B. Sowers to purchase an additional tract of land which originally had been appraised at $157,000 but later was increased to $200,000.

Ferguson challenged authority of the public works director to purchase the new site as the original appropriation made four years ago was for additions to the present state office building on property already owned by the state. The present legislature in reappropriating the money made it available for "site and buildings."

Strike End Announced

SAN FRANCISCO—(UP)—Federal Conciliator Omar N. Hoskins announced that the CIO American Radio Operators' union—last striking union standing in the way of settlement of the three-months-old maritime walkout — reached "complete agreement" with shipowners today.

The agreement with the radio operators, which Hoskins said he thought would be ratified immediately, left only one obstacle in the way of maritime peace on the Pacific coast.

That was the stand by Harry Lundeberg, president of the Sailors Union of the Pacific (AFL), who publicly has said his men will not go back to work unless jurisdictional guarantees protecting the union are given.

The accord reached between the radio operators and the Pacific American Shipowners association settled the disputes of all five of the original striking unions. The CIO Longshoremen already have voted to ratify a new contract, CIO Engineers have signed a new contract and the Shipowners yesterday reached agreements with the CIO Marine Cooks and Stewards and the Independent Marine Firemen.

Record Steel Output

LORAIN —(AP)— An all-time high in steel ingot production was achieved last month at its Lorain works, the National Tube company announced today. The ingot total at the U. S. Steel subsidiary's plant was 166,250 tons.

Millersburg Hotel Man Is Stricken

MILLERSBURG — Arthur Meadows, 60, co-owner of Hotel Millersburg, died suddenly following a heart attack at 7 p. m. yesterday in the hotel. He had been in failing health for a few months and brought his son-in-law, Earl Zimmerman, here from Wooster on Feb. 1 to manage the hotel.

Mr. Meadows was born in Bath county, Kentucky, and was a member of the Evangelical and Reformed church in Wooster. 1,310 Galion Voters Sign Power Referendum Petition

GALION, — Petitions carrying 1,310 names of voters of the city of Galion, requesting that the franchise ordinance should be submitted to a vote of the electors of Galion, yesterday were turned in to Mayor H. H. Hartmann and Council Clerk James H. Nichols.

The franchise ordinance was passed several weeks ago by council over the mayor's veto. It granted the Ohio Public Service company the right to sell electrical current to two Galion manufacturers, the Galion Iron Works and Manufacturing company, and the Central Ohio Steel Products company.

Upon passage of the ordinance over the mayor's veto, the petition for a referendum was instituted by John P. Drouth, a Galion taxpayer. City officials stated that while only 450 signers were needed under law, they now have 1,310.

The franchise ordinance also received another attack on Nov. 13 when a temporary injunction against the city of Galion and the Ohio Public Service company was granted in common pleas court, Bucyrus, shortly after a petition for injunction was filed by City Solicitor George H. Davies.

The injunction suit attacked the emergency clause of the franchise ordinance which Mayor Hartmann vetoed. It requested that any action be enjoined until a petition for referendum be filed. At that time, Nov. 13, Judge C. U. Ahl granted an injunction for 30 days.

The city needs more power for its progress, manufacturers and civic leaders have contended, and the solution as to which is the best method of securing the additional electric energy needed has long puzzled citizens.

Manufacturers have declared the Galion Municipal Light and Power company no longer is able to generate adequate power, and a supplemental supply from an outside utility is necessary.

On the other hand, opponents to the plan to secure power from an outside utility have declared that this will lead to the abandonment of Galion's municipal plant.

New Orleans Merchandise Mart Opens

Serves As World Marketplace

BY WINONA McKENNON
Central Press Correspondent

NEW ORLEANS, La. —Flying the flags of 60 nations, the International Trade Mart in New Orleans opened its ultra-modern doors Nov. 29 and 30, with formal dedication ceremonies of world-wide significance.

William McChesney Martin, president of the American Export-Import bank, officiated, attended by foreign ambassadors who arrived by chartered plane from Washington, D. C., and other noted civic and business leaders from commercial-minded nations of both hemispheres.

You need not wait another day to drop in or write for merchandise. If you want a Leige shotgun or a bolt of Brussels lace for a wedding you will not find it necessary to travel or write overseas.

Your local merchant can contact International Trade Mart where the articles are now on display for import or export along with other items in the show-room the Belgian consul has rented from the unique establishment.

This is the marketplace where the world can see what the world has for sale. China, Siam, Germany, England, the Philippines, Indo-China, France, Holland and Norway are completing displays of their merchandise for sale and foreign visitors to New Orleans can inspect the products of 500 United States firms which have showrooms in the Mart.

The $1,500,000 building itself is attractive enough to warrant a visit to its site in the heart of New Orleans. Built of white stone and brick glass its air-conditioned comfort includes a cocktail bar and tobacco shop.

GLEAMING CORRIDORS are flanked throughout by swank, glass-housed showrooms featuring items ranging from harvest machinery, air-conditioning-equipment, building materials to jusical instruments, luggage, rare china, chemicals, spices and furs, with catalogs and brochures available.

The sale of any merchandise under its roof will not net the Mart one cent of profit, however. It is an investment in good will and trade stimulation only and charges are made merely to cover the building and operating expenses.

Rentals will bring in an annual revenue of about $300,000. Operating expenses and amortizing and bonds will require about $200,000 per year, an amount assured by leases already signed.

The difference between income and expenses will be devoted toa far-flung and extensive advertising and promotional campaign designed to bring buyers into the Mart both from the goods-hungry countries of the globe and from our own states which have become a far more important market during the war years.

This non-profit policy is in keeping with that of International House, the institution which fathered the new Mart. Founded just five years ago by civic-minded business executives, International House has been used daily by consular personnel of the 38 countries having diplomatic offices in New Orleans.

The lounges, dining room, library and multi-lingual staff of International House welcome travelers from all over the world and assist them in consumating commercial transactions.

Through receptions, lectures and tours International House has achieved an admirable good-neighbor status It was here that the need for such a Mart was sensed, realized and fulfilled.

A close relation between International Trade Mart and the Foreign Trade Zone has already been noted. The Zone, opened May 1, 1947, in New Orleans, is the second such duty-free storage space in the United States and provides low-cost warehouse facilities for manipulating, processing, handling and packaging of materials in any way short of manufacture.

★

DUTY is paid on such commodities only when the goods is moved out of the zone into the United States. Here only United States labor is employed in wool-scouring, Brazil nut grading, fur-processing, sorting precious stones and other operations. Many of these products are moved on to the Mart.

Visitors find that the new Trade Mart fosters unusual attractions. Pierre Clemenceau, grandson of the late great French statesman, heads a company dealing in musical instruments at the Mart where is displayed modern instruments as well as the harpsichord played many times by Wolfgang Mozart for his patroness, Maria Theresa of Austria.

★

AN ADVERTISING AGENCY has available to clients a motion picture room where continuous film shows scenic and commercial attractions of various countries. Elevator operators and attendants are bi-lingual. The superlative beauty of the materials and craftsmanship is astonishing.

All under one roof with supermarket convenience, the wares of the world are here for inspection, sale or purchase. Convenience is the keynote of the Mart. Every effort is made to assist the customer in seeing merchandise, discussing cost and shipment, arranging for delivery and consignment.

Access to the fulsome facilities of International House complement the Mart's services. Letters of request or mail orders are given prompt consideration and efficient service without charge.

Shopping together is a quick way to get acquainted and citizens from all nations are becoming neighbors as they bargain their way through the new market. Prosperous neighbors foster peace and it may develop that the Mart's most precious commodity is one that does not appear on any price list or repose in any single showcase —good will.

Dogs Are Loyal, Devoted

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—(AP)—There are those who say dogs came to their present position in society through hand-licking and flattery.

That is a wicked lie. The literature of dogs is loaded with actions of courage and loyalty, and history proves them closer to man than any other animal.

Dogs give him companionship and devotion. They wear their hearts in their eyes. They accept constant neglect without recrimination.

I wish I could explain how dogs got that way.

Once I knew a red terrier who followed his master into suicide. He jumped off a building. There was a setter whose heart broke, and he died, when the man who owned him never came home from a duck hunt Ever hear of a cow grieving to death?

Five years ago in Sicily a dog named Chips, a mongrel in the Army's K-9 corps, won a silver star by capturing an enemy machinegun nest. He leaped for the gunner's throat, and the gunner, suddenly very white, threw down his gun and surrendered. Three others threw up their hands. A general recommended Chips for the Distinguished Service Cross.

After that, the War department said medals couldn't be given to dogs. But Chips got his. They riveted it to his collar. Later, when eight other K-9s were killed in the southwest Pacific, the Army posthumously awarded them certificates "for outstanding performance of duty."

There are dogs like Chips everywhere, and like the red terrier who committed suicide, and the setter who died of a broken heart. Their lives are a running story in the daily newspapers.

Having risen from the status of a beast of the field, without any rights, dogs now legally partake of many of the rights of humans.

They can be brought into some courts and tried as criminals, as in the recent case of a dog named "Scout," who was tried, convicted and executed for biting people.

It was the British who gave first recognition to dogs as personal property.

Medical Association Displays Fake 'Scientific' Cure-Alls

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
(AP Science Editor)

ST. LOUIS —(AP)— Would you like to receive some unexpected money?

Or learn whether duck eggs make you vibrate faster than hen eggs?

Or have your health toned up by 24 radio dials?

These and many other things you can try for, free of charge, at the scientific exhibition of the American Medical association which opened a four-day meeting here this week.

There is no guarantee that the treatments will work. They are part of an exhibit labeled "mechanical quackery," put on to show the public some of the medical remedies for which people pay millions of dollars each year.

Radio treatment is the latest and best-looking addition to the exhibit. It is finely paneled, the size of a home television set, and is a contribution from the Indianapolis Better Business Bureau, which obtained it after Indiana courts had ruled it did not work scientifically.

You hold a small metal rod in each hand, plugged into the panel which has 24 dials, four red lights, one green and one white. A high frequency electric current, which you cannot feel, runs through your body from tubes and coils inside the machine.

The directions say this current gives the rate at which your body is vibrating and that 49 is the vibration rate of good vitality. The operator is supposed to read your vibrations by listening to noise over a head set, or he may do it by rubbing his fingers over a plate in front of the panel.

He puts a bit of duck egg on a metal plate in front of the panel and a white light comes on. White is for a food test. He listens and the rate of vibrations tell him whether duck eggs will build up your vitality. And so with all other foods.

If you want general toning up by radio waves, which comes from the instrument and not from broadcasting companies, he turns a dial reading "treatment," or if you feel really bad he turns the same dial to a point reading "double treatment."

The money treatment is in a smaller box, not much larger than a radio, but containing fewer electrical appliances. You grasp two pieces of what look like bakelite fastened to the box, and the operator drops your name into a slot on top of the box. Then he asks for money for you. That is all. It was supposed to work.

If he diagnoses you as having a germ infection, he may chant, after your name in the box, "kill the bacillus. Kill the bacillus."

This box was said to lengthen or shorten legs, to fill teeth naturally, and to diagnose all human ailments. But the inventor went too far and aroused suspicion when he guaranteed that this box, after the paid name was in, would fertilize a field over a radius of 70 miles, kill dandelions and grow good grass on golf greens.

Sales facts on the box were not given, but the big radio console sold for a list price of $1000 and exhibitors said more than 1000 were sold.

Protest Seizure

WASHINGTON —(UP)— The United States has protested Hungary's recent seizure of two American-owned oil companies, the state department announced late yesterday.

In a note delivered Tuesday, the United States charged that alleged "confessions" of sabotage against two American officials of the firm were "wholly false." The note said Hungarian police used "force and duress" to extract the "confessions."

"Moreover, the United States government regards these allegations as having been political motivated to serve the purposes of communist propaganda and to feign grounds for bringing the companies under communist state control," the note said.

The two companies are the Hungarian-American Oil company and the Maort Gas Trading company, American-owned subsidiaries of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey.

Fails to See His Attacker

COLUMBUS — (INS) — A 54-year-old delivery truck driver could not identify today the thief who slugged him and robbed him of almost $600 as he was working over his stalled truck.

Charles A. Morehouse, driver for a wholesale tobbaco firm, told sheriff's deputies the truck stalled yesterday on route 23 near Columbus. He said he removed the carburetor and took it inside the truck to repair it.

He said he did not see the thief who struck him on the right temple, leaving him unconscious for about an hour, and taking $576.65.

Drilling Draws Fire

CANTON, — (AP) — Because of the noise created by gas well drilling, a measure has been introduced in city council to ban the operations between 10 p. m and 6 a. m. A group of residents complained to council that the racket was keeping them awake.

Continue Gas Probe

AKRON — (INS) — An official of the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio was expected to continue an investigation in Akron today to determine whether residents are complying with a PUCO order, prohibiting the installation of unauthorized natural gas.

Censors O. K. This

New Style Strip Tease Hits Filmdom

By VIRGINIA MACPHERSON

HOLLYWOOD — (UP) — Dave Kashner, who has a job most gents wouldn't consider work, is the only man in Hollywood the censors will let undress a movie queen. He does it with a whip.

That way he doesn't lay a hand on the lady and we guess that makes it okay with the morals boys.

It also makes him the one man who can crack the whip with temperamental movie queens and make them stand still for it. They'd better. One wiggle and they're minus an ear—or worse.

Kashner is celebrating his 25th year of snapping his home-made whips in movie stars' faces and he has yet to raise a welt on a $5,000-a-week body.

The closest he ever came, he says, was the time he put Barbara Stanwyck through the Kashner special—a "whip tease."

She had on a suit—to begin with," he said. "I took off her jacket first, then her skirt, then her blouse, and so on."

By the time the Kashner whip stopped whistling through the air, Miss Stanwyck was shivering in her lingerie.

"That trick called for hair-line aim," report the man responsible for her goose-pimples. "But she never flinched once."

He can do other things with that ugly rawhide whip besides undress ladies. He's snapped a rose out of Dorothy Lamour's hair, yanked Ray Milland off a speeding nag, and lashed Errol Flynn's base torso so realistically the lady customers squealed and Errol didn't feel a thing.

"The stars don't get nervous," Kashner says. "But the directors do. I don't blame 'em. It would be a terrible thing if I took off the tip end or Dorothy Lamour's nose."

New Council To Hear OSU Professor

Fawcett Speaks To Mathematicians

Prof. Harold P. Fawcett, teacher of mathematics at Ohio State university and Nationally known author, will come to Mansfield next Wednesday to speak before the newly organized Mansfield Council of Mathematics, Ralph Juniper, its president said today.

Prof. Fawcett is known in Ohio as an outstanding mathematics teacher and throughout the nation as author o f the book, "Nature of Proof," written for the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics.

He will speak at the John Simpson cafeteria and refreshments will be served following the meeting.

So far, according to Juniper, the council has 100 members. It was organized originally for the purpose of promoting the best mathematics teaching methods in the city schools and as a medium for the discussion of the best in the latest methods for anyone in the community who is interested, Juniper emphasized.

"We'd like an organization of between four and five hundred members one big enough to bring nationally known men and women here," he said.

Parents and patrons of the city schools as well as teachers are invited to join us next Wednesday. There are two kinds of membership-active and associate both cost 50 cents per year. Active members are the teachers of the city and associate those people of the community who care to join in discussions."

The active members of the council will hold special meetings to discuss better teaching methods. The general meetings will be held once each six weeks with a speaker brought in from out-of-town.

Juniper asks that anyone interested in attending next Wednesday's meeting make reservations through their neighborhood schools, so that refreshments can be planned.

Gives Tips On Mailing

Acting Postmaster Curtis L. Ford today urged Mansfielders to get addresses on Christmas cards as nearly complete as possible and to send their holiday greetings at the first class rate of postage.

Ford explained that cards which are sent at first class rates will be dispatched and delivered first. They will be given directory service and, if necessary, forwarded without extra charge. If undeliverable, they will be returned to the sender if the sender's address is shown.

Greetings sent at first class rates may be sealed and contain written messages, Ford added. This is not permitted in third class mail, he said.

Cards sent at third class rates are not entitled to free forwarding or directory service. If such cards cannot be delivered as addressed, in most cases they must be destroyed as waste. Thousands of cards sent at third class rates last year could not be delivered, Ford said.

Buys Stock In Youth Project

NEW YORK—(UP)—Rep. Clarence J. Brown, R., O., held stock today in a "corporation" operated by high school youngsters in Newark, N. J.

Brown bought the stock after hearing a fellow speaker at the session of the Congress of American Industry.

Brown's colleague was Peter Czapt jr., 17, of Newark, who is treasurer of West Laboratories, Inc., manufacturers of after-shave lotion.

The "corporation" is many miniature enterprises directed by some 70,000 boys and girls in 80 cities throughout the country. The program is an educational project sponsored by American business men.

Unusual Railroad Attracts Attention

By BERTRAM ROBINSON
Central Press Correspondent

LANCASTER, S. C.—More vice presidents than miles of track!

That's the distinction claimed by the Lancaster and Chester railway, which operates—as you may have guessed— between Lancaster and Chester, S. C.—a distance of only 29 miles—and boasts 30 vice presidents. It also lists three surgeons, a consulting physician, and a marine superintendent, although far from any port.

The names of the VPs read like a page from the Blue Book of Fame, and include: Adm. W. F. (Bill) Halsey, Canadian Air Marshal W. A. (Billy) Bishop, playwright Charles McArthur, tobacco tycoon R. J. Reynolds (he's also marine superintendent), artist James Montgomery Flagg, historian Samuel Hopkins Adams, golfer Bobby Jones, radio and newscaster Lowell Thomas, who is listed as advertising representative. Harry S. Truman tops the list as honorary president.

All this glittering galaxy of officials are friends of Elliott White Springs, president of the railroad, a noted writer and Air Force veteran of World War I, who also heads the Springs chain of seven textile mills, which employ a total of some 15,000 persons, and a nearly completed $11,000,000 bleachery, all located at Lancaster, Kershaw and Fort Mill, and adjacent to the tracks of the L and C.

Springs, who has a whimsical sense of humor, gets a big kick out of handing out titles on his railroad. The names almost fill up the L and C letterhead, but give the little line an air of prestige and importance.

Most of the road's business is confined to bringing raw materials and coal to the Springs mills and hauling out cotton goods to the main line of the Southern railway at Chester.

The four coaches of the diminutive railroad, once the pride of the rural countryside, were in a wreck in 1913, and since then the line has carried no regular passengers. Anyway, busses now parallel the L and C and run more frequently. The road operates three regular trains in each direction every day but Sunday.

The train schedule, an elaborate folder printed in color, is more an advertisement for the mills than an informative guide. The whole organization is a leisurely affair, as may be derived from the following schedule notes:

(b) Run only by a vice president; (1) bad connections; (J) not the slightest connection; (N) stops during quail season only.

The L and C claims to be the first all-Diesel operated railroad in the south, if not the entire country, and its claim has not been challenged. It bought six Diesel locomotives (electric) as surplus from the government in 1946.

The road has never failed to pay a dividend since 1896, when it first came under the control of the Springs family, during which time it has survived fire, wrecks, floods and tornadoes.

Chartered in 1873 by the South Carolina general assembly as the Cheraw and Chester railway, construction was started from Chester. The builder made the 29 miles to Lancaster but not the next 50 to Chester.

MODERN? YESSIR!—Four L & C Diesels haul a heavy freight train up steep grade at Lancaster, S. C.

PREXY—Elliott White Springs

Old-timers remember when they could jump off a coach, pick wild plums and blackberries along the right-of-way, and get back on the train on time, as the wood-burning engine lumbered up a grade of the hilly little road.

The late Col. Leroy Srpings, father of the present owner, bought the railroad at a receiver's sale in 1896 for $25,000.

A. P. McClure, a veteran official of the railroad, paid high tribute to the business acumen of Colonel Springs when he purchased the road with the idea that it might prove useful in his future textile operations.

Although Elliott Springs is a close friend of his 30 VPs, they have never been assembled at a board meeting, something he hopes to accomplish at a not too remote future date.

Obviously, these men serve without remuneration, and such a get-together would be in the interests of friendship rather than business.

INJURIES PROVE FATAL

PORTSMOUTH —(AP)— James Hurley, 68, died last night of injuries suffered Tuesday when hit by a hit-skip driver in New Boston.

Detective Removed

CLEVELAND —(AP) The police racket squad was shaken up yesterday and Detective Lt. Martin P. Cooney was removed as its head by Police Chief George J. Matowitz. The action followed the arrest Tuesday of seven persons on policy charges by assistant Safety Director Alvin J. Sutton and policemen without the help of the racket squad.

Support Time Short

Price support loan and purchase agreements on 1948 crops must be made by Dec. 31, Guy L. Taylor, chairman of the Richland Agricultural Adjustment Administration, warned today.

The following support prices expire Dec. 31: wheat at $2.12 per bushel, oats at 75 cents a bushel, corn at $1.50 a bushel, and soybeans at $2.18 a bushel. Final date for potato loans is Dec. 15.

"Many farmers today remember the severe decline which they experienced in 1920 and 1921 following World War I when in less than a year farm prices dropped more than 50 per cent," said Taylor, as he announced the price supports.

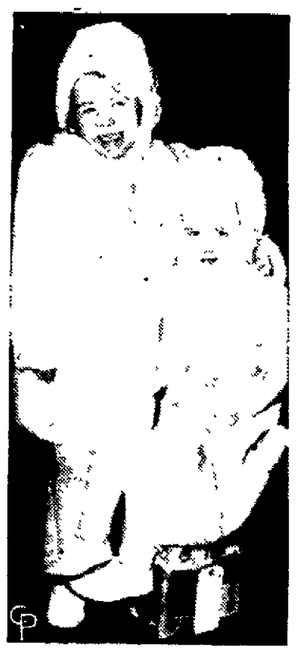
Taylor went on to suggest that any farmer wishing to use the support program or who desires further information should contact the Richland county Triple A office as soon as possible.

Tree Ruled Out

NEW PHILADELPHIA —(AP)— A community Christmas tree will not be erected in the public square this year. A survey conducted by Mayor Robert Lukens, who asked citizens to make known their wishes by postcard, disclosed that 125 of 229 objected. The opposition claimed the tree was a traffic hazard.

ARRANGE CONVENTION

EAST LIVERPOOL — (AP) — Officials of the United States Potters' association completed arrangements today for the group's annual convention in New York, Dec. 14-15.



LET IT SNOW—From frigid Norway come the Froland sisters, Sylvia, 4½, and Vigois, 2½, all bundled up for a cold winter. They're bound for Sturgeon Bay, Wis., and apparently happy about it as they reach New York on the ship Stavengerfjord. (International)

Dies of Injuries

CLEVELAND (AP)—Cleveland's traffic fatality toll for the year was raised to 86 today following the death of Tobias Malm. He died in a hospital yesterday of injuries suffered Nov. 17 when he was struck by an automobile.

New Strife Hits Syria

DAMASCUS, Syria — (AP) — Syria's government crisis deepened today in an atmosphere of high public tension.

Five persons were killed yesterday in public demonstrations demanding resumption of the Arab war against Israel, and scores were injured in clashes of troops and crowds of demonstrators.

A protest strike against the government's Palestine policy is continuing. (This dispatch passed through Syrian censorship, and lacked elaboration on the strike and the disorders).

Suspends License

The liquor license of the Roxy restaurant, operated by Harry Rogers at Crestline, was suspended yesterday by the state liquor control board for 20 days, it was announced in Columbus. Rogers, who holds a beer and wine permit, was cited by the state for having gambling devices and employing minors.

Why Dutch is Growing a Beard

That beard on Dutch Miller's chin doesn't mean that he's getting ready to play Santa Claus. He's simply paying off the election bet he lost to Cappy Swanson.

And while some folks allow it's all a lot of nonsense — like the wheelbarrow ride that Cappy had to give Dutch after last election day—from where I sit, it's a mighty wholesome aftermath to a difference of opinion.

Because good Americans all take their politics and voting mighty seriously. But when the issue's settled, and the die is cast, they accept the verdict in a spirit of good humor.

And that's as it should be when it comes to any difference of opinion. Some folks vote for beer as their favorite beverage—others vote for cider. In fact, we all have differences of taste in almost everything! But that doesn't mean that we can't live together in a spirit of good fellowship.

What Aid To China Now?

AMERICANS are likely to look with caution on Madame Chiang Kai-shek's plea for aid to China. They will be careful, too, about endorsing her husband's veiled hint that General Douglas MacArthur would be an "acceptable" person to help direct the war against the Chinese communists.

It was not so long ago that Winston Churchill was saying, "Give us the tools and we will finish the job." And the situation in China appears even graver than was the outlook in Europe when Churchill spoke.

The communists have taken the last major military barrier to Nanking and the Chinese nationalists are leaving the capital, probably to take refuge at Canton in south China.

There is a serious question of how the Chiang government has used the aid already given it. Possibly they did the best they could in a poverty-stricken nation torn by inflation. But there have been unrefuted stories that the aid was actually transmitted to the communists in bargaining sell-outs by northern warlords.

The Generalissimo has his problems, militarily. It seems fairly clear that his troops would rather stay safely behind fortifications where supplies are available than to go out and meet the enemy.

Here again, they may have good reasons. The Chinese reds are known to have the full backing of Russia and perhaps the realistic Nationalist troops figure they haven't much chance of winning, so why work too hard at it.

All this is vital to American thinking in determining how far we are to go in helping China.

Bluntly, the United States can hardly be expected to embark on a program which would eventually lead it into a full-scale war against Russia in the Orient. Because it seems that even if such a war were won, this nation would still have the burden of organizing the peace and rebuilding Asia as we are already committed to do in Europe.

More logical seem the quiet moves for strengthening Alaska, Hawaii and the Pacific islands and constructing an effective Pacific alliance.

No one likes to contemplate a communist-dominated China. This would probably mean a communist India and Malaya as well, eventually.

But we should not be stampeded by fear of such a prospect. The Orient is a strange, varied, and massive area of earth and humanity. It has been known to swallow an invader even while he thought he was swallowing it.

Our state department is indubitably right in adopting a go-slow attitude toward China's tragic problems of this hour.

Seaway Project Gaining Supporters

HERETOFORE operators of Great Lakes ship fleets, railways, more southerly seaports and associated interests have opposed the St. Lawrence Seaway project, but now one large-scale operator has turned about to favor the seaway. This is the M. A. Hanna company of Cleveland, owner of ore mines and coal mines in addition to a fleet of vessels, which has awakened to the idea that in future years it might find the seaway profitable.

The company says its change of position comes from study of "new facts." These include the approaching exhaustion of the high grade iron ores of the Mesabi Range in Minnesota, and the discovery of comparable ore deposits in Quebec and Labrador. When the Canadian iron ore mines are developed, the ore will go to docks on the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

If the navigation situation should be then as it is now, most of this ore doubtless would be shipped down the Atlantic coast, some to Philadelphia for transhipment to Pennsylvania mills, the rest to be carried on to southern mills. One result of this situation would be increased development of southern steel industries at the expense of those of the midwest, which would be paying higher hauling charges on ore.

This firm and some others probably regret that they did not foresee, a decade or two ago, that by the middle of the century they would be vitally interested in the St. Lawrence Seaway. It is too bad that many others still have trouble seeing that the development would stimulate all commerce along the lakes and the St. Lawrence, and so would in the end benefit the entire country.

North Africa's Ancient Agriculture

HELPING PEOPLE to help themselves is still a good formula. Thomas D. Campbell of Hardin, Mont., one of the world's largest wheat growers, is leaving to help the French government increase wheat production in North Africa. Hardin's 43,000-acre farm makes an intensive use of modern machinery; this he does not hope to introduce into Africa immediately. Not only would the initial cost be too great, it would take years to learn the operation and maintenance of the machines.

There are other methods which can be taught immediately. Ninety-five per cent of the North African soil, says Campbell, is still farmed by methods in vogue thousands of years ago. As the soil and weather conditions of North Africa approximate those of Montana, Campbell is confident that his suggestions will do good.

North Africa used to be the granary of the Roman empire. Culturally it was part of Europe rather than of Africa proper. Some of Rome's great emperors came from North Africa, as did the famous Latin playwright Terence, and the church father, St. Augustine.

Conquest by the Vandals in the fifth century and later by the Arabs ended this connection with the north side of the Mediterranean. Ever since North Africa has lagged behind. Campbell is now seeking to reverse a 1500-year-old trend.

Denmark Sets An Example

DENMARK does not ordinarily do much talking, but it has something to talk about none-the-less. This is the progress which has been made, thanks to Marshall Plan money.

The Danes estimate that every dollar received under the European Recovery Plan has been multiplied fourfold under their administration. Investment in industry is three times what it would have been without American help.

This is one answer to those who fear that Marshall Plan aid is simply thrown away.

It appears that some of those commemorative stamps were designed from sketches drawn by congressmen—but it doesn't seem necessary that each congressman should be thus qualified.

'Compromise' Is Sought

By THOMAS L. STOKES

WASHINGTON — Now that the various interests and political groups that tried so hard to defeat President Truman finally are recovering from election shell shock, the air is getting think with talk from them to promote "compromise" on this and that part of the comprehensive legislative program that he pledged in his campaign.

Surprisingly enough, the first to rush in with compromise overtures, and perhaps with less grace, were southerners in Congress. They came bearing proposals for compromise or delay in the President's civil-rights program, breaking in dulcet tones the silence they had preserved so rigidly in the campaign, most of them not even daring them to mention the name of their party leader and President of the United States. Their attitude is somewhat like a defeated army insisting upon writing the peace treaty.

In the fine spirit of a good winner the President has restrained politely from saying the obvious things that he might have said. He is preserving a decorous silence while they talk. He has not been cajoled into giving the least encouragement to the "compromise" movement.

For purely practical political reasons, if nothing else were involved, the President would not compromise before the fight began. He is, after all, experienced in politics. He will present his program to Congress again, just as before.

But there is something else involved of which the southerners perhaps have not taken due account. That is the President's conviction that the time has come for this nation to institute simple justice for all of its citizens, in keeping with the Constitution, and in keeping also with the leadership our nation has assumed in the world. He will not be deterred from that.

His is the opportunity, and there is evidence he recognizes it, to write a charter of human rights in this century to implement those great acts of the past that have marked the successive stages of our progress as a great democracy, including the Constitution and Abraham Lincoln's Emancipation Proclamation. It is time for the next step. The President, a close student of American history, is conscious of the stream of history.

* * *

Progress Being Made.

HIS determination should be plain now to everybody. It has been tested, as by fire. He heard himself vilified when he submitted his program to Congress originally, and he saw the southern rebellion mount to such fury that experienced observers could see nothing but the wreck, temporarily at least, of his party and the doom of his own chances for re-election.

Despite that, despite the pressure brought on him to drop the issue in the campaign as a desperate move to appease the South, he spoke out again in Madison Square Garden. His courage on this issue undoubtedly was an influence with many voters who had no direct personal interest in it, other than the simple interest in civic decency, and was one of the elements in his surprising victory to which no account was given during the campaign.

President Truman is further along with the people of the South, perhaps, than with the politicians of the South. This is indicated by the much larger vote for him in the South than had been anticipated.

Of interest, too, is a fact discovered by this reporter on a pre-election tour of the South that there is considerable acceptance of parts of the Truman program, such as anti-lynching legislation and abolition of the poll tax.

Because of his sincere desire to get his charter of human rights on the statute books as a landmark of his second administration, it is expected that the President will plan his course carefully.

A likely course is to start first with more accepted portions of it and work gradually to the rest. It would seem essential also to get some curbs on filibustering in the Senate, which hitherto have prevented action there. In this Republicans can be helpful.

Washington Calling

Lobbyist Or Lawyer?

By MARQUIS CHILDS

IF THERE were any justice in this cruel world, such things couldn't happen. Former Congressman Roger C. Slaughter of Missouri has been indicted and will be tried for violating the law requiring lobbyists to register and list their employer and the amount of their compensation.

Slaughter says he was not a lobbyist for the grain trade. He was a lawyer paid for his legal services.

This is a fine point. Here in Washington a great many lawyers, some of them graduates of the New Deal, are paid large sums by their clients even though they never go near a courtroom.

They are part of the influence industry in the capital, and if the courts hold that Slaughter was actually a lobbyist and not a lawyer, there will be considerable trepidation in certain important law firms.

But the truly poignant point in the Slaughter case is not legal or technical at all. On the record as it stands, you can make a good case that Slaughter did as much as any single individual to help get President Truman re-elected.

Whether as lawyer or a lobbyist, he was influential in persuading Congress to include a limitation on the powers of the Commodity Credit Corporation to store grain on the farms. This meant that the bountiful grain crop overflowed on the open market, with farmers forced to sell at less than the subsidy price.

This fact, hammered home by President Truman in his repeated attacks on the 80th Congress, is believed to have had a greater influence in rural areas than anything else.

* * *

ADA Influence Felt.

WHILE he was elected to Congress in 1942 as a Democrat, Slaughter almost invariably during his two terms voted against the measures sought by the head of his party.

His record may have pleased the Kansas City Chamber of Commerce but his opposition angered President Truman, who took a particular interest since Slaughter's district was next door to the one in which the President votes.

In 1946 the President helped to defeat Slaughter in the primary. In the election that followed, a Republican, Albert J. Reeves jr., in turn defeated the President's man.

What happened there this year is typical of the Nov. 2 revolution. In the Democratic primary an unknown, an amateur, Richard W. Bolling, had routed the Pendergast forces to win the nomination. On Nov. 2 he rolled up the biggest majority in the history of the Fifth district, to swamp Reeves.

Bolling, a Pacific war veteran, was midwest organizer for Americans for Democratic Action. He made a forthright, hard-hitting liberal-New Deal campaign.

Bolling is only one of a number of active ADAers who were elected to the new Congress.

This liberal-labor organization, which was strongly anti-communist and anti-Wallace during the campaign, will exercise considerable influence in the 81st Congress.

Hubert Humphrey, elected to the Senate from Minnesota, was a national vice chairman of ADA. Humphrey led Senator Joseph Ball by over 200,000 votes. In St. Paul an active ADAer, Eugene McCarthy, topped his Republican opponent for the House by about 20,000.

In Wisconsin ADA's national political director, Andrew J. Biemiller, was elected to Congress from Milwaukee. He had served a term in Congress from 1944 to '46. Another Wisconsin Democrat, Clement J. Zablocki, was elected with ADA support.

The newcomers will be heard from in the new Congress. And ADA has already started an organizing drive aimed at elections still to come.

As Cerf Tells It

Unlikely Bernard Shaw story No. 8611: The ninety-two-year-old sage visited a great London specialist for a general checkup. "You're in remarkable shape, considering your age," said that gentleman, "but you realize, sir, that various infirmities will crop up at this stage of the game. Unfortunately we doctors have not yet found a way to make men younger."

"I didn't come to you to make me younger," snapped Shaw. "What I want to do is grow older."

Washington Merry-Go-Round

No Cabinet Changes Before January 20

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Talking to a close friend last week, President Truman confided that he did not intend to make any cabinet changes before Jan. 20, at which time several cabinet members would go.

However, Mr. Truman, who knows what it is to be broke, said he didn't want any cabinet member to appear to be fired, for fear it might hurt his future earning power.

"And I'm not going to throw them out while the newspapers are sniping at me," he added. "When the newspapers stop picking my cabinet for me, I'll pick my own."

* * *

News Omission.

NEWSPAPERS outside New York and Washington sometimes get mentally kicked around by their readers through no fault of their own. They are at the mercy of the press association which frequently take their lead from the big Washington-New York dailies.

Here is a case in point:

Front-page news in the big metropolitan dailies recently was the report of ex-Senator W. Worth Clark of Idaho urging that several billion dollars be dumped into China. Clark had been sent to China by Republican members of the Senate appropriations committee and almost every newspaper front-paged his demand for Chinese aid.

However, not one paper carried the very important fact that ex-Senator Clark was a former partner in a law firm which was paid $100,000 by T. V. Soong, brother-in-law of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, for the express purpose of getting aid for China.

* * *

Qualified Public Servant?

MAYOR John F. Davis of Reading, Pa., tells this story on himself:

"Shortly after I was elected, I began to learn about the qualifications for government office. A friend dropped in and suggested that I give a job to George Schultze down in the 6th ward.

"'What can he do?' I asked.

"'Nothing,' replied my friend.

"'Then let's hire him right away,' I said. 'We won't have to break him in'."

* * *

Doctor Shortage.

Unassuming Oscar Ewing, the federal security administrator, has been doing some quiet digging on the all-important problem of getting more U. S. doctors, dentists and nurses.

"Even today, three years after the end of the war," says Ewing, "there are large sections of the country woefully lacking in doctors."

Meanwhile, medical schools are overcrowded and medical faculties are so understaffed that, if new medical schools were started, it would be difficult to find enough professors to staff them.

Ewing is working on a plan for federal loans to medical students as one way to ease the doctor shortage. Local banks would grant tuition-loans to qualified students, with the government guaranteeing the loans 100 per cent.

He is also hoping that the bill introduced by Senator Thomas of Utah will pass the next Congress giving government subsidies to medical schools based on the number of students they turn out.

Note—Ewing blames the marriage-market for the nurse-shortage. Good nurses get married about as soon as they get trained. However, all is not lost, says Oscar; they make better wives.

* * *

Labor Diplomat.

PRESIDENT TRUMAN'S advisers are seriously considering the appointment of a labor leader as assistant secretary of state.

Hitherto, high state department jobs have usually gone to Wall Streeters, as for instance the present Undersecretary of State Robert Lovett, a big investment banker, and Assistant Secretary Charles Saltzman, former vice-president of the New York Stock Exchange.

However, most European governments are now dominated by labor. In fact, the moderate labor leaders of Western Europe are considered the best bulwark against Russia, and it is vital that U. S. diplomats understand their point of view.

That's why a labor leader may be among the new state department executives, also why Irving Brown, the international labor office representative in Europe, may be appointed U. S. ambassador to a Western European country. Brown's quiet work among European labor leaders has done more to combat Sovietism than a whole crew of the old-fashioned U. S. diplomats combined.

New Orleans Points Way

By KENNETH L. DIXON

NEW ORLEANS—Maybe when a cosmopolitan atmosphere has hovered over an area long enough, it just doesn't seem unusual when it crops out with particular effectiveness in specific spots.

Certainly, after several visits here, this correspondent has never been told by anyone in these parts that the International House of New Orleans is one of the most cosmopolitan spots in the world.

Nevertheless, considering its comparatively youthful life as an institution, it is.

This might not seem noticeable—unless you had listened for hours to habitues of certain clubs and organizations in Paris, Rome, New York, Shanghai, Manila, San Francisco, Cairo, London and elsewhere point out the cosmopolitan aspects of their favorite watering spots around the world.

Yet New Orleans, which has had the flavor of mixed tongues in its air for so long that it has developed a distinct dialect or two all its own, rarely seems to consider it worth mentioning to the casual visitor.

And International House, an establishment less than ten years old as an idea and less than half that age as a working institution, is more truly a cosmopolitan club than almost any this somewhat-traveled correspondent has ever visited.

The house is a non-profit organization formed by a group of New Orleans businessmen primarily to promote and stimulate world trade through the port of New Orleans.

* * *

All Languages Spoken.

AMONG its more than 2,000 members are men from every continent in the world and almost every major nation. And when a non-resident member or guest arrives in the already world-famous trade and friendship center, it is rare indeed that he is not greeted in his own language by someone lounging around the club.

It is far more strange—almost unheard-of—for that matter—if some staff member is not immediately brought forth who speaks his language almost as well as he.

The staff member can do even more, for International House boasts numerous bi-lingual secretaries who handle correspondence, arrange meetings, handle all translation and interpretation work and, in general, solve the visitor's language difficulties. (Offhand, this correspondent can recall half a dozen so-called cosmopolitan centers in the world where such services were almost unobtainable).

Such linguistic abilities, to a lesser extent, permeate the entire staff. One European guest, called to the phone the other night during a dinner at International House, said upon his return to our table:

"This is one of the few places in the world, outside my own country, where my name is pronounced correctly when I am paged."

Part of the reason for the success of International House in making the foreign visitor feel at home is, of course, the very history and background of New Orleans, where French, Spanish and a couple of other languages have had their day of supremacy. And at least a partial understanding of a people always accompanies a real grasp of their language and all its idioms.

As for being cosmopolitan, even a Yankee is welcome within its portals, and if he vulgarly refers to the War Between the States as the "Civil War," no one will even cock an eyebrow—much less a pistol.

One Man's Opinion

—By WALTER KIERNAN

LETTERS to Santa are beginning to go forward . . . Walter Reuther says he would like a nice 1944 cost of living.

* * *

He had one in 1944 but that was the year he thought he would like a 52-for-40 magic kit . . . printed in bright colors and attractively boxed.

* * *

The instruction sheet read "This little kit will apparently put surplus cash in any man's pockets" . . . and most people read every word of it except one.

* * *

But everyone would like a 1944 cost of living this Christmas . . . particularly those who liked it even in 1944.

* * *

Six people on a television show were asked "Which would you rather have . . . 1948 prices and wages or 1940 prices and wages?" and as one man they answered "1940 prices and 1948 wages."

* * *

Is there a Santa in the house?

Dave Boone Says:

GRAND OPERA was broadcast by video the other night and up my way it marked the debut of the fellow who stands in line all night in front of a television set to get a good front seat.

* * *

I thought the opera directors kept the television cameras from shooting the scenes the general public was most eager to see. Not an opera patron made the screen jumping through paper hoops in the lobby or otherwise trying to revive vaudeville.

* * *

I see where experiments are going on in heating highways to melt the ice and snow in winter. This will break the heart of every kid with a sled.

* * *

Heating the highways to cut down winter auto accidents is a good idea, but what this country needs is some device for cooling off "hot" drivers not only in the winter but all the year around. They cause more accidents than the weather does.

Farmer's Diary

Her Gifts Are Ready

By CALVIN A. BYERS

"I used to worry about what to give for Christmas," said the plump white-haired farmer's wife, hanging up her chore coat. "Not any more. Want to see my Christmas outlay? All my shopping has been done for several weeks."

I followed her into the old-fashioned 'buttery' where the kitchen supplies were stored. On the window sill were two odd collections of houseplants, each blooming in a hollowed out knotty log. "I started slips of all my favorites," she said, "and last fall when I took the flowers indoors, I made up these window pieces for my two sisters. They live in town . . .

"That ham stuck with cloves, is for my bachelor brother who lives alone. It's all ready cooked. I'll airmail it to him—he's in Alaska—and it'll bring him the flavor of home. Those two bags of chips and that Yule log go to our preacher's family for Christmas eve. This big bag is full of black walnuts—for our California cousins; that little bright-red one is just buttons—it's for my niece who has a half dozen children bursting out of their clothes. I always cut them off before I put things into the rag bag, and they do accumulate around here.

"These small squatty jars are the kind that had mustard in. I enameled the lids, marked them Oil, Cotton, Swabs, Boracic, and painted those little storks. The neighbor's baby will get here in a few more weeks . . . This package is catnip, and bird seed and fish food for a friend of mine who likes pets and I put in some flower seeds, too, from my own flower garden. She's a wealthy old lady, but she'll appreciate something personal like . . . she has what money can buy.

"I always think it's the personal touch that makes Christmas the most fun," she went on, climbing up on a step-stool to get something from an upper shelf. "It makes me feel real cheated if people don't write some message on their Christmas cards. Here's an old jug lamp that I rigged up, myself, for a friend who adores antiques—and here are some plastic clothespins for my ultra-modern granddaughter who's away at college. They'll do to send her, providing I put in a fruit-cake, too."

From behind the door, the amazing woman took down a new pair of men's overalls—the kind with built-up shoulder straps and an ample waist. Her eyes twinkled brightly—"Got these for myself," she said. "Pa wouldn't want me to wear his pants, even if I could get into them! But now and then I just like to do some unwomanly stunt like to whitewash the cellar, or go coasting with the boys."

C. of C. Warns on 'Shysters'

City Residents Urged To Check on Salesmen

John G. Routzon, secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce, today issued a warning to Mansfielders who are being taken in by slick-tongued salesmen.

Routzon said his office has received a number of complaints from Mansfielders who have failed to investigate thoroughly before signing contracts or paying out money for services they don't receive.

Routzon urged Mansfielders not to do business with strangers; never to sign contracts until they know what they are signing, which includes reading the fine print, and never to pay until they have received what they are buying and are satisfied with it.

He cited a case in which a storm window company had contracted with a Mansfielder to install doors and windows. The representative of the company agreed orally to have the job done within 30 days. Sixty days after the deal was closed the Mansfielder came to the Chamber of Commerce with a complaint.

He produced the contract which he had signed and said the company had installed one storm door a week after the contract was signed. After that no more work was done. Routzon pointed out that no oral promise will stand up in court and the Mansfielder should have investigated before signing the contract.

ROOF JOB COSTLY

Another city resident signed a contract to have some repairs made on a roof. By the time the job was finished the company had charge enough to pay for a new roof. Once again the person had failed to investigate the company, Routzon said.

Routzon pointed out that once a contract is signed, no matter how unfair it may seem, it is still a legal contract and cannot be broken.

A common practice of shyster businessmen is to put in fine print in a contract that once the job is started the contract cannot be broken, Routzon said. Then the businessman immediately starts the job, does as little as possible, and quits, secure in the knowledge that he is protected by that fine print.

OFFERS SERVICES

Routzon urged Mansfielders to take a day or two to investigate both the reputation of the company and the individual representing the company before closing any business deal. He said the Chamber of Commerce would be only too happy to investigate before the arrangements are completed.

He said that the Chamber of Commerce can investigate both Mansfield and out-of-town firms in large cities through its contacts with other Chambers of Commerce or Better Business bureaus.

He added that investigation is like preventative medicine — it can do a lot of good beforehand.

Four Boards Seek Bids On Bonds

Issues Finance School Projects

Four Richland county boards of education will open bids on school bonds totaling $332,000 Dec. 21.

The largest bond issue to be acted upon will be the $180,000 authorized for the Madison Local School district. The money is to be used to complete the school improvement program now under way.

The funds will permit new constructions and additions to the present facilities. The bond issue was approved at the Nov 2 elections.

Bids for purchase of bonds issued in the amount of $80,000 will be opened by the board of education of the Union Local School district. The bonds are issued to provide funds to build a fireproof addition to the present school building.

The Plymouth Village School district will open bids on the $48,000 bond issue authorized in last month's election. The funds are to be used to supplement $80,000 on hand to build a new elementary school building.

A $24,000 bond issue for Mifflin Local School district will finance a new school. The funds will be used with $48,000 raised by a bond issue two years ago to build a six-room cement block elementary school building which will replace five one-room schoolhouses in Mifflin township.

New 'Sniffer' Helps Police

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. —(U.P.)— City policemen who have sniffed thousands of alcoholic breaths in line of duty are going to get relief from the unpleasant task with a scientific machine designed by two Yale rofessors.

The alcoholometer will relace the "tell by smell" routine now used by police in suspected cases of drunkenness. The machine measures alcoholic content with photo-electric cells.

There is only one way to beat the machine, officials said: "Hold your breath."

TO ASK RESIGNATION

Regional Youth Director Talks To Mansfield Hadassah Chapter

THE Mansfield chapter of Hadassah held its monthly meeting at Temple Emanuel, Cook road, with sixty-five members present.

An attractive luncheon was served by the hostesses, Mrs. Philip Oxman, Mrs. Elmer Klein and Mrs. Ray Lumbert.

The guest speaker was Miss Marjorie Slustker of Lorain, O., Regional Youth Director of Hadassah, who was one of ten chosen in the United States for a year's study of conditions in Israel. Miss Slustker related stirring examples of the fine work being done by Hadassah, not only in regenerating youth coming into Israel from displaced persons camps throughout Europe, but because of the widespread influence of their health program.

The balance of the program was centered about three important events of this month. The Youth Allyah movement, founded in 1934, was highlighted by a dramatic poem, "Let Us Remember," given by Mrs. Jules Frankel.

The birth month of Henrietta Szold, originator of the crusade for health in the middle east was commemorated by an interesting anecdote regarding her given by Mrs. Leopold Adams.

In celebration of Chanukah, a candlelit skit was presented by Mrs. Lumbert, Mrs. Klein, Mrs. L. E. Budin, Mrs. Carl Graver, Mrs. Nathan Lifson, Mrs. Al Cousins, Mrs. Joseph Ellison, Mrs. Leonard Goler, Mrs. Charles Kates and Mrs. A. L. Gordon, with piano accompaniment by Mrs. J. B. Rosenberg.

The next regular meeting will be held on January 5.

Mrs. W. L. Althouse entertained 12 members of the Journey Club Wednesday for a dessert luncheon at the Women's Club. The group voted a donation to the Volunteers of America. They also agreed to buy a gift for the new Friendly House in memory of Mrs. Jay Palmer.

Following roll call Mrs. C. V. McConnell spoke on "Current Best Sellers", mentioning two Mansfield authors, Louis Bromfield and Jane Williams.

Plans were made for a Christmas party and gift exchange to be held at 2 p.m. Dec. 15 at the home of Mrs. G. H. Zediker, Edgewood road.

Garden Group Hears Mrs. Takos Speak

Mrs. Howard Tittlebaugh, 281 Poplar street, was hostess to members of the Garden Group of the Colony club Wednesday evening.

Mrs. George Hickman and Mrs. Rose Steele were welcomed as two new members.

Refreshments were served from a table decorated in the Christmas theme. Candles and evergreens were used to center the table.

The next meeting will be January 4 at the home of Mrs. Robert L. Ross, 480 Clifton boulevard. She will be assisted by Mrs. Mabel Ward.

Those whose birthday it is may feel an active and ardent urge to drive ahead on large objectives, in which long-range desires and plans may seem urgent. With push, concentrated effort, and calmly regulated enterprise and initiative, there may be stability, enduring returns or sound progress. But should such attempt be too strenuous, there is danger of defeat or of some in which there might be misdirected plans, or even a phase of physical mishap. It's Time To Plan Your Christmas Dinner Now

By CECILY BROWNSTONE

Time to plan Christmas dinner now! Time, too, to check up on the most up-to-date practices in roasting a turkey if you want your bird perfect. Here's a brief Turkey Quiz to bone up on before The Day.

How much dressing should you allow?—One cup of dressing for each pound of turkey is a good guide. The rule is to pack the stuffing in lightly to allow for expansion in cooking. This way you'll achieve a fluffy, good-tasting result.

How can you put two kinds of dressing in one turkey?—If the members of your family have strong individual preferences for wet or dry, sweet or not-at-all-sweet dressing, you can make everybody happy by preparing one kind of stuffing for the body, another for the neck.

Why is trussing recommended?—Because binding the legs and wings to the body improves the turkey's appearance, helps the bird to roast evenly, and makes carving easier. First step in trussing is to lift the wings up and out, forcing the tips back until they rest flat against the neck skin. Second is to tie the legs together and then pull toward the tail until the leg ends are right above it; now tie the legs close against the tail After one hour of roasting the leg trusses should be cut, releasing the leg ends from the tail.

How do you use skewers?—To fasten tthe neck skin—after it has been filled with dressing—to the back Also to close the abdominal opening so the dressing won't fall out by lacing it together with light cord and a few small skewers.

What are the advantages of a roasting rack?—Either a flat or a v-shaped rack raises the bird so that heat can circulate freely around and cook and brown it evenly. Roast the bird breast-down, except for the last quarter of cooking, when the breast may be turned uppermost to insure total browning

And how about the cranberries to go along with the turkey?

Here are some tips for their Christmas preparation that ought to make them taste better than ever.

What kind of cranberries give the best eating?—In buying, choose berries that look fresh, firm, and shiny. If they're shriveled, dull-looking or soft, you may be sure they'll be of inferior flavor. Government experts say that the smaller, darker berries may be somewhat sweeter than the rather large, bright red berries. For whole cranberry sauce, the largest, brightest berries make the best appearance.

What else besides turkey goes well with cranberries?—If roast chicken, duck or pork are on your Christmas menu you'll find the sweet-tart flavor of cranberries just right with them.

How long should cranberries be cooked for sauce or jelly?—Modern methods emphasize short rapid cooking as the best way to preserve flavor and color.

How about raw cranberry relishes?—Raw cranberry relishes are a comparatively new development in cranberry cookery—and one that's here to stay. They are likely to be so popular once you try them on your family and friends that they'll want you to include them every year The base of all these new relishes is the raw cranberry, put through the food chopper, usually using the medium knife. Along with the cranberries may go any other fruits you like, fresh or dried, and then enough sugar is added to sweeten and develop flavor. When such fresh fruits as lemons or oranges are used the fruit skins go through the chopper along with the pulp. Other additions such as nuts or coconut may also go into the relish

Here is a new recipe for Cranberry Pear Relish that I tried for the first time this year with the hearty approval of guests. The tangy taste of lemon and the fresh flavor of the pear go well with the cranberries.

Earthquakes in Alaska 50 years ago caused some sections of the coast to rise as much as 50 feet.

You Don't Need Four Hands, Lady, Just New Work Methods

COLUMBUS.— (INS) —Housewives: When your work piles up, do you sometimes wish you had four hands?

Nine Ohio State university graduates came up with an answer to your problem but it does not involve any extra appendages.

Instead, what you need more than extra hands or a magazine dream kitchen, is a "new look" in housekeeping methods.

The collective opinion of the nine co-eds is based not on academic theorizing but on scientific data gathered in a course labeled "the application of motion and time study principles to the field of home economics." The course is being offered at the autumn quarter at Ohio State.

This, Mrs. Housewife, is what you should do:

"Develop an analytical approach to the problems involving human effort, utilize human effort more efficiently."

And says instructor S. D. Viers of the industrial engineering staff "you are a sucker if you don't revise your own housekeeping operations."

The nine graduate students have developed new ways of doing the chores at time savings of 10 to 92 per cent. And they are using old or standard household equipment without benefit of any automatic or push-button magic.

At the beginning of the course, each girl prepares a chart showing every movement involved in the household task she chose for study. Then, on still more charts, she records every motion of both right and left hand, along with seconds and minutes spent in each motion.

After study, the wasted movement can be lopped off, and comparative films of the before and after type, even amaze some of the students.

Marian Wilt of Akron, for example, discovered that she could save 28 per cent of the time ordinarily spent in making biscuits by kneading the dough in a mixing bowl, transferring it to the baking sheet and cutting the dough with a sharp knife. No washing of a bread board or re-working of dough scraps was necessary.

Mrs. Julia Judson of Gilbertsville, N. Y. ran up a time saving of 30 per cent for three sandwiches. Ilene Brown, of Dale, Texas, chalked up a 39 per cent saving in time in ironing a handkerchief by placing the iron flat on an asbestos mat and eliminating unnecessary strokes in the ironing process.

Disclose Heating Innovation

French Process Used In U. S.

NEW YORK — (AP) — A method of heating homes by electricity has spread to the commercial building field for the first time in this country. The method was first developed in France.

The heat is supplied by tempered glass panels, 16 by 24 inches, on the back of which are fused grids of an aluminum alloy. A panel gives off heat when an electric current passes through the grid.

A complete installation has just been made in an entire office building on 35th street near Fifth avenue.

Warmth generated by the glass panels is known as radiant heat, which warms the walls, furniture and people in a room rather than the air. Radiators and hot air ducts produce convection heat, which warms the air and the air in turn warms the objects in a room.

Radiant heat by glass panels was used abroad before the war. France's Maginot line had them as well as Parisian apartment houses.

Installations have been made in homes in this country but on a limited scale because the new product has been on the market only a short time. Commercial use has been even more limited.

The building in which the large-scale installation has just been made is a six-story structure housing a local unit of the Building Service Employes International Union (AFL) and the Continental Radiant Glass Heating corporation. The heating company holds the patent rights for glass panel heating in the United States by agreement with a French concern.

Basil Needham, president of Continental Radiant, says the cost of a new home can be cut by "at least $1,000" by use of the coated glass panels.

For the first time, he says, electricity is on a competitive footing with heat-producing fuels.

He estimates that a 6-room, 8,000 cubic foot house, with 220-volt wiring, can be equipped with the necessary master control box, thermostats and panels at a total installed cost of about $500.

Clinic Tract Aids Insects

ROCHESTER, Minn. (U. P.) — For all sorts of creeping, crawling things, a 350-acre tract of land overlooking the home of the world-famed Mayo clinic is a veritable paradise.

Here the coddling moth, apple maggot, blight, fungus, canker or any other pest or growth will find a happy home where he can gnaw, bore or spread to his utmost.

Meanwhile, horticulturists watch. It's a huge outdoor laboratory founded to work on the problems of Minnesota's fruit and forst tree growers.

It's a long-term investment. Officials figure the work won't begin to pay off fully for between 25 and 100 years in all fields.

For example, experts see in Minnesota an excellent spot for apple production if properly developed. The scientists are finding out which varieties of apples are best for this part of the country.

Bigger Pockets—Bigger Tips?

Streamlined Waitresses Now Appearing

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS

WASHINGTON — (UP) — The little gal who fetches your coffee and soup at the corner beanery will be better behaved and better dressed from now on.

That is, if the overlords of the Southeastern Restaurant association have anything to say about it—and they do. The group is holding a convention here.

The Washington unit is taking the lead in the behavior department with a school for waitresses. It's run by Mrs. Lena Watson, a pleasant little woman with gray hair and pink-tinted eye glasses. The course is free to all comers—paid for by the District of Columbia school system and the restaurant association.

Mrs. Watson makes it clear to her students at the very outset that the war is over. The waitress field is crowded already and being one, she points out, is no bed of roses.

"I point out to the girls that they'll have to work hard and walk many miles a day while doing it. That often develops big hips and fat legs."

The last two warnings scare off a lot of would-be waitresses.

Main theme of the course, Mrs. Watson says, is courtesy.

"Service with a smile may be a cliche," she adds, "but it pays off."

In tips, to be sure.

"But I tell the girls there is more to good service than a silly, stage grin," she says. "People come in to a place to eat and when they order scrambled eggs for breakfast they don't want to have to wait until lunch time to get them."

A "Thank you" helps, to, when the check is paid.

Mrs. Watson presented a show to the convention, displaying the new look in uniforms.

Skirts will be a little longer, in keeping with the styles—"but not so long as to be uncomfortable for somebody who has to swish around as much as a waitress does.

The uniform manufacturers pointed out other advantages, too. A. W. Young of the Angelica Jacket company, which makes dresses, aprons, etc., for the help, said the little dandy of the 1949 lot is made out of nylon.

Darndest thing you every saw, quoting Young.

A girl can slush it around in a little warm water after a hard day among the tables and in the morning give it a once over lightly with an iron—and zingo! She's well dressed again.

Backstage Doorman Reminisces; Tells of All-Time Acting Stars

NEW YORK—(AP)—Every night in the week and sometimes in the afternoon George Pierce goes to the theater.

Most people pay to get in but George goes in through the back door and he always gets in free.

As a backstage doorman of the Empire theater, the oldest playhouse in New York, George Pierce's life is part of a never-ending rendezvous of celebrated characters.

How long has this been going on? "Say I been here twenty years—say thirty," says George. "Say I was a foundling and was brought up here. Sometimes it seems that long."

The world of George Pierce is a drab, narrow backstage hallway, built of bleak brick, as most backstages are. There is the customary rack holding the actors' mail, the usual fire extinguishers in their shiny cases, one chair, and a telephone that has been disconnected.

"We used to have a phone back here, but they took the phone out and we have to go to the drug store"—with just the trace of a grumble.

A bright atom of seventy-plus ("I don't believe in stating precise ages. Makes it tough if you ever want another job") George Pierce is slightly over five feet high, utterly bald, behind whose horn-rimmed glasses the merriest of brown eyes twinkle.

"That Nazimova," says George, "she was a one. We always played little games, we did. Like the one with the rug. We had a little strip of rug in the hall. We called her the queen and made the other members of the cast straddle it. Only the queen could walk on the rug."

He pointed to a framed photograph of Lillian Gish.

"Lillian and Burgess Meredith were in the 'Star Wagon'. Lillian had a dog named Malcolm and Burgess had a valet named Malcolm, and everytime anyone said Malcolm, the dog and the valet would come running out."

The number one dressing room today is used by Dorothy Stickney, but many years ago George hung a little frame on the door that said, "The First Lady."

"I remember the day Gertrude Lawrence bounced in. I said, 'Miss Lawrence, there's your dressing room.' She ran over to it, and when she read the sign she cried, 'George, stop pulling my leg'. Made me feel real develish."

The responsibilities of a backstage doorman when being interviewed are such that he dare not say anything about this person, or admit a fondness for that one, without causing resentment or hurt to others.

His esteem for Katharine Cornell, however, could not be concealed.

"A mighty fine woman. In the Barretts of Wimpole Street there were a number of English people, and they always wanted tea at 4 o'clock. I used to serve them. Used to make it right here. Funny thing, the English don't like our tea balls.

"But Miss Cornell was an angel, bad days and good, rain or shine. She never left the theater on matinee days. She'd stay in her dressing room until the evening performance. She'd send out for food, have her dinner right in her room, and she always ordered for me.

"The Lunts were like that, too. They were crazy about stews. The Lunts brought their food from home and I warmed it and prepared it here. There was always a portion for me. Fixing the Lunt's food was a pleasure. Mr. Lunt, being a master cook himself, it was served in person by him."

Plays come and go but the people who have known George Pierce back stage apparently never forget. Opening nights are high pressure, with hundreds of telegrams pouring in, but there are always a few for George—like the one on the recent night when "Life With Mother" opened which came from Martha's Vineyard:

"I am always glad you are there holding the fort, dear George."

It was signed Katharine Cornell.

$6,000 Left To Church At Ontario

Retired Farmer Makes Bequest

An aged, retired farmer has left more than two-thirds of his estate, estimated at $8,500, to the Ontario Community church, his will admitted to probate, disclosed today.

The church's benefactor was Robert M. Taylor, who died last Oct. 24. He had been living at 52 South Diamond street. His will stipulated the balance of his estate go to the church to be used "as its governing body deems best," after bequests to 10 persons.

These bequests included: Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Beard, of Medina, $500; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Weaver, of Mansfield, $200; Mrs. ary Palmer, of Ontario, $100; Ralph M. Hardy, of East Mansfield, $300; Mr. and Mrs. Vern Ritchey, Mansfield, $100; Edward Etz, Mansfield, $100; and M. M. Muselman, Lima, $100.

With funeral expenses and the costs of administration and attorney's fees taken out, it is expected that the church will receive more than $6,000. Hardy was named executor of the estate.

Another will gives $500 to the Pleasant Valley Lutheran church. The church was left the money by Mrs. Florence E. Wheaton, of Lucas, who died Nov. 17.

The money is to be placed in a trust fund called the "Herring Memorial" in honor of her husband and his mother, deceased. The church is to use the income from the fund as the church council considers best.

Balance of the estate, estimated at $20,000, was left to her daughters, Florence E. Wheaton, of Mansfield, R. D. 4, appointed executor; Mrs. Erma Arehart, Lucas; Mrs. Rhea Studebaker, Tipp City; Mrs. Freeda Faust, and Mrs. Lucille Reed, both of Lucas.

CLEVELAND — (AP) — J. Fred Munnell, 52, of Crestline, O., has posted bond for an appearance in federal court in Detroit on charges of selling prison-made goods.

He is accused of selling $39,000 worth of textiles, ordered by the federal government, to private buyers while he was an official of the southern Michigan state prison at Jackson.

He was scheduled for a preliminary hearing here today, but the U. S. Marshal's office reported he had posted $2,000 bond for an appearance in Detroit on a date to be set by the federal court there.

Auto Rams Freight Car

Driver Escapes Injury In Crash

An East Third street man narrowly escaped injury at 4 a. m. today when his car struck a Pennsylvania freight train on the Wayne street siding.

Menno A. Brenneman, 312 East Third street, driver of the car, told police he saw no watchman or flare at the crossing. He added that his windshield was so frosted that he was unable to see the train until he was about 10 feet from it.

According to police, Brenneman had crossed the bridge over Touby's run just before he struck the train. Officers estimated the car was dragged about 30 feet across Wayne street where the car hit a telephone pole. The car then rammed the bridge railing which prevented it from dropping into the creek.

Police said the train crew was unaware of the accident until told by officers. Engineer of the train was identified as R. B. Histed.

Honored For Long Service as Lodgeman

Harry W. Zellner, a member of the Knights of Pythias lodge for the past 50 years, last night was honored with a life membership certificate and given a jeweled lapel pin for his half century of service with the lodge.

The presentation was made by Rev. Charles F. Sheriff, who also recognized Zellner's 48 years as lodge treasurer, ending Dec. 31. Zellner was re-elected for the 49th year last night and after several months' vacation in Florida will return to resume his post as keeper of lodge monies.

Fifty years ago when Zellner, then 25, joined the group there were more than 500 members. The lodge was one of the most active in the city, Zellner recalls.

"The lodge began to go down hill after our deal for a new motion picture house fell through," Zellner remembers. "That was in 1913 after members had bought the old Cap. Taylor home at West Fourth and North Mulberry streets. We had our plans all made to erect a new building on the site, but the plans fizzled out.

After that, members just seemed to lose interest. But in the old days, we had grand times. There were men like the late Judge Norman Wolfe and Judge Brucker, the Douglas boys, both of whom were lawyers, in the lodge. We always had a circus at our meetings in those days.

NOW ON UPGRADE

"However, our lodge has revived a great deal in the past few years and we are on the upgrade again."

"I remember the carnivals we held on the square. We had a high fence put around Central park and it was one of the best shows ever held in the city. That must have been around the turn of the century because I joined the lodge in 1898 and it was held shortly after I became a member.

"In those days, we had one of the best degree teams in this area. We used to dress in our Roman robes and put on a show."

Zellner is a former city mail carrier. In February, 1943, he retired after nearly 46 years of tramping city streets. His membership in the First Lutheran church antedates even his postal and lodge records. He recalls how he marched with members from the old Lutheran church home at West First and Mulberry streets to the present church when it was dedicated Oct. 21, 1894.

Mr. and Mrs. Zellner are leaving in a couple of weeks for Miami where they will spend some time with their son, John, a pianist. The Zellners have two other children, Mrs. S. R. Awwiller of Weslaco, Tex., and Mrs. J. E. Schall of Maumee.

2 Trade Blame In Money Theft

Each of two Mansfield youngsters, accused of taking $54, blamed the other for the theft today in juvenile court. Judge Stuart H. Cramer then continued the case, but set no time for the next hearing.

The youngsters, nine and 14 years of age, are accused in the theft of the money from the billfold of Robert Seitz, of Logan road. Seitz was taking a shower at the YMCA, and his clothes were in the dressing room.

CUPID'S IN A SLUMP—

Courthouse observers have an idea that apparently "it's not the girl who proposes." For in this leap year, marriage licenses issued have fallen off each month except one. Only in March of 1948 were more licenses issued than in the same month last year. Continuing the trend, last month saw 48 licenses issued, compared with 84 for November of last year. And in October of this year, 61 licenses were issued, compared with 80 in October, 1947. Of course, this leap year business may not mean much. Actually it's more likely due to a decline from the war years — or high living costs.

NEWSMEN NOW—

The YMCA bears a faint resemblance to a newspaper office these days as the first issue of a monthly paper is being readied for press. The publication will be a four-page sheet, offset printed, and will contain 'Y' news and a calendar of events. The first issue comes out Dec. 15. The project is the brain child of the 'Y's' public relations committee composed of Lowell Bourns, chairman; Roger Gray, Alvin Preyer, and Charles Lake. A contest to name the paper is to be held, the details of which will appear in the Dec. 15 edition. Distribution will be to members. Friends of the Y may obtain copies at the YMCA building. Preyer is the editor.

Firemen, Police Get Boosts

Voter Mandate Aids 80 Workers

City firemen and policemen were wearing big smiles today as the 29 to 45 per cent pay increases granted them by the voters a month ago went into effect.

The raises, which will be paid beginning with the Dec. 18 payroll, boosts patrolmen's and firemen's salaries from $230 a month to $300. Raises for other ranks are comparable, with the chiefs' salaries being upped from $275 to $400 per month.

The new pay scale, which effects 80 of the city's employes, will increase the annual payroll of the city by approximately $98,300.

SEVENTH INCREASE

The new raises are actually the seventh granted the police and firemen since February, 1943. It is the first granted by vote of the people, however.

On Feb. 2, 1943, the police and firemen were granted $15 increases, from $160 to $175 a month. On Jan. 1, 1944, they got a $10 increase, upping their salaries to $185. In March, 1945, they were given a $10 bonus, raising their wages to $195.

The bonus lapsed on June 1, 1946, when a $20 increase was approved by city council, raising the base pay to $205.

Council gave them a $10 bonus in April of 1947 and then added another $15 in November, 1947, raising their pay to $230, counting the bonus.

By popular demand, the Amvet minstrels will be repeated Dec. 13 at John Simpson auditorium.

The announcement was made last night by Amvet Commander Louis Doerr after some 200 persons had been turned away due to lack of seat. Packed to the last row in the balcony, the auditorium rang with laughter throughout the show.

It was the second night the auditorium had been packed to the rafters for the show, directed and produced by Hal McCuen. Nearly 2,400 Mansfielders saw the performances during the two nights.

Approximately 50 persons stood through the two-hour production last night after arriving too late for seats.

Comedians C. J. "Connie' Kalbfleisch and Robert Kaser got the biggest laughs again last night while the vocalists in the show scored heavily.

At the close of the business session, pictures of the farm were shown by Harry Constance.

Cardington Span Breaks Restored

U. S. Route 42 Traffic Diverted

CARDINGTON—Gas and water services were restored to this town of 1,500 today while officials speculated on the age of the Whetstone bridge, carrying the mains, which collapsed early Thursday when a lumber truck crossed the 100-foot span.

The collapse of the wood and steel structure into the creek, 15 feet below, came at 6:30 a. m. yesterday while a Keeshin Motor company trailer-truck crossed it. The driver, Ralph R. Cross, 26, of Cleveland, suffered only minor bruises.

Gas and water mains running across the bridge were snapped in two when the bridge croke near the middle and slipped off the cement abutment into nine feet of water. Cross crawled up the slanting bridge to safety.

State highway officials estimated today the bridge was 60 years or older. The span, scene of numerous accidents in recent years, is believed to have been weakened in another crash. Cross insisted his truck did not strike the bridge.

An estimated 3,000 vehicles a day crossed the old span on U. S. Route 42, one of the main arteries between Cleveland and Cincinnati.

In an effort to keep traffic expedited on its course, highway. Officers detoured all south-west bound motorists to turn off Route 61, follow to Route 529 and then west into Cardington. East and north-bound motorists were instructed to turn south from Route 42 onto Route 529 in the center of Cardington, travel east three miles to the main county road and then left to Route 42 at Mt. Gilead.

Officials believed the bridge was built in the late 1800's or early 1890's. It has long been regarded as one of the state's danger spots because its location is such that Route 42 must bend to about a 40-degree angle at the north east entrance to the bridge.

THIS WHOLE "VILLAGE" OFFERS TEMPORARY HOUSING for sweet potatoes. North Carolina farmers bury the crop in these teepee-shaped "vaults for storage. The state produces nearly 8,000,000 bushels a year.—(International)

To Conduct Services

BUCYRUS—Rev. Donald Wonders of Cleveland, archdeacon of the Episcopal church, will conduct services Sunday morning in St. James' Episcopal church here. After the service, Rev. Wonders will meet with the vestry to make provision for a lay-reader to conduct services until an ordained rector assumes charge of the parish.

Farmers Do Foot Chore

COLUMBUS—Few city business men do as much walking in their day's work as do farmers. It is not unusual for a farmer to walk many miles just in doing the chores about the barn and feedlots. Much if this mileage could be avoided, agricultural engineering specialists point out, by relocating some of the strategic points and installing labor-saving devices.

If a building is so located that 10 extra steps are required to reach it, a minimum of two miles are paced during the year. On many farms the buildings are so widely separated that the farmer and his hired hands must spend much time walking from one to the other, as they do their daily chores.

Feed conveyors, grain elevators, manure carriers, automatic waterers and self feeders are some of the labor savers that can also save steps and time for the farmer and his helpers. The tractor and tractor-drawn equipment have taken much of the walking out of field work but there is much that can be done to economize on the energy expended in doing the daily tasks about the farmsteads, according to the specialists.

New London Gets Better Rail Service

Two Additional Trains Stop

NEW LONDON—This village's fight of the last two weeks against the proposal of the New York Central railroad to eliminate west bound passenger stops here has had it's effect, in that no trains have been removed but instead, two additional trains have been added, thus greatly increasing rail facilities.

Minor changes have been made in the schedules, and New London now will be served by a late afternoon stop east and an additional night stop west.

Attorney George C. Ford, who has been battling to retain the New London service, is pleased at the outcome, declaring "while all details have not yet been smoothed out, we are much better off than before, in that we have much better service, in addition to much better riding trains."

40 Volunteer As Firemen In New Unit

Liberty Township Drafts Action

TIRO—Liberty township trustees, at a meeting last night in the Sulphur Springs school, considered a list of 40 men who have applied to serve as volunteers in the new township fire department.

The trustees also planned to order a new fire truck from the Bean Manufacturing company in January. Steps were taken to perfect the departmental organization of the new volunteer set-up which will serve each section of the township.

Charles Scott, deputy state fire marshal in charge of rural fire protection, attended the meeting and helped draft organizational plans.

A social group was organized for the firemen. Roy Welsh was elected president; Walter Haines was named vice president; Irvin Clary the secretary, and Elvin Regula the treasurer.

The officials meet next Thursday evening to adopt by-laws and plan further activities.

Library Board In Ashland Gives Bids Extended Study

ASHLAND—Ashland public library board members are giving extended study to bids for erection of a proposed new library before determining whether or not it will be possible to go ahead with the construction.

Charles Sharrock, chairman of the board, states it may be several days before the board reaches a decision.

Bids were asked for a scaled-down version of original plans when sale of the Opera House, which now houses the library, seemed imminent.

With the Opera House sale halted for the immediate present due to a referendum petition on its disposal, the library board may be able to delay construction of a separate library building until building costs decrease.

Farmers Get Less Income Than In '20s

National 'Cut' Decreasing Now

COLUMBUS—People living on farms receive a smaller portion of the national income now that they did in 1920, according to the rural economists at Ohio State university.

They say that although 19 per cent of the people live on farms they get only about 12 per cent of the national income. The income per person on farms is only about one-half the income per person off the farm.

Other observations of the economists are that the farmer gets only about half of the retail dollar spent for food. The other half goes for transportation, processing and marketing.

During the last year the portion going to the farmer has decreased and the portion going to the marketing agencies has increased. One-half the cost of marketing is for labor.

Clean Eggs Keep Longer Experts Say

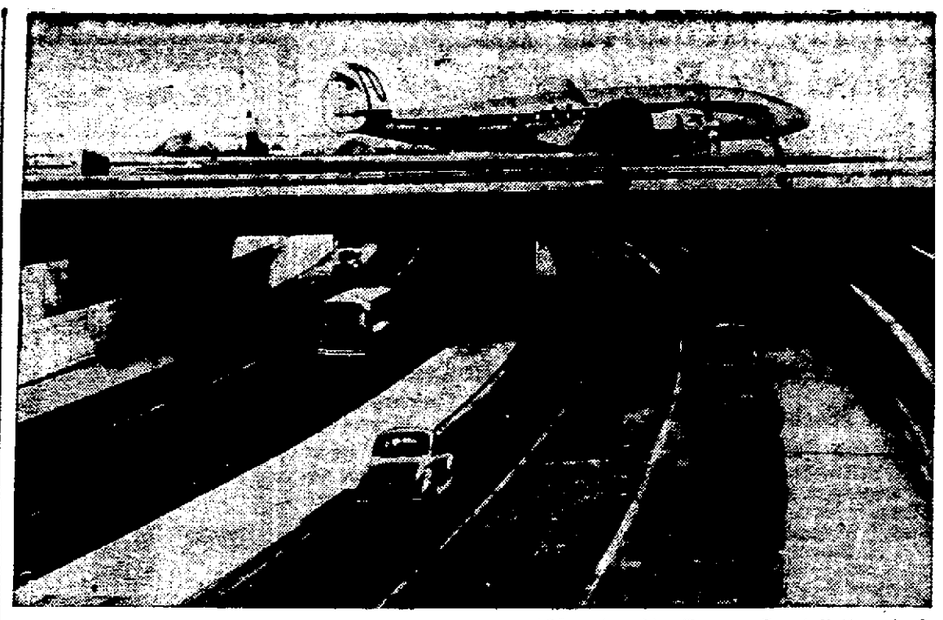
Poultry Raisers Given Advice

COLUMBUS — Consumers will pay more for clean eggs than for dirty eggs. Aside from the appearance which makes them unappetizing, the dirty eggs spoin quicker than the clean ones. The reason for this, as the poultry specialists point out, is that the dirty eggs carry more micro-organisms that penetrate the shell and cause spoilage.

To avoid dirty eggs, poultry raisers are advised by D. D. Moyer, Extension poultryman at Ohio State University, to use deep litter in the laying house, protect the roosts with wire screening, use good type nests with the right kind of nesting material, and gather the eggs three or four times a day. Also keeping the birds confined during wet weather will help in reducing the number of dirty eggs.

Tests have been made to determine how fast spoilage organisms penetrate the shell at different temperatures. It has been found that even with clean eggs nine-tenths of them were affected after being held 10 days at 93 degrees with a high humidity. Nine-tenths of the dirty eggs were affected in eight days when held at the same temperature.

When the eggs were kept at 41 degrees, less than one-tenth of the eggs, either soiled or clean, were affected on the 10th day. This, the specialist says, proves the importance of producing clean eggs, handling them properly and keeping them in a cool place, which is the approved procedure.



WORLD'S FIRST HIGHWAY UNDER A LANDING STRIP—An Air France Constellation taxies across "roof" of a new six-lane underpass for automobiles at New York's International airport in Queens, the first time in airfield history that auto and plane traffic problem has been solved in such fashion. The installation, costing $4,250,000, is an extension of Van Wyck expressway, connecting airport terminal with main entrance. Missouri Dairyman Finds Balanced Farming Pays

Noel Smith, quarter-section dairyman of Jasper, Mo., might be named "best customer of the year" if business men in his community ever pick one. A few years ago, says Capper's Farmer, he wouldn't have been in the running.

"When the Smiths moved to their farm the place was thin," says a story in the December issue of the nationally-circulated farm magazine. "It had been wheated to death. The Smith income was limited by skimpy crop yields and low livestock output.

"Smith started to become a good customer when he joined a balanced farming ring. In the last seven years he has limed the whole farm at four tons an acre. Phosphating, begun with liming, made his land grow legumes. Now he has a rotation of small grain, sweet clover, sorgo, small grain and lespedeza. Crop yields on tilled land are up a fourth to a third.

"His old pasture, 50 acres, got a complete reworking with a disk and field cultivator, two tons of lime an acre and a reseeding. Last year Smith went over it again, applied another two tons of lime, 400 pounds of 2-12-6 and a mixture of grasses and clovers. Temporary pastures of winter barley and winter oats are seeded every fall."

The farm magazine declares Smith now has more feed. He has 40 Guernsey cows, twice as many as when he moved on the farm. Chickens have been stepped from 150 laying hens to 250. He keeps fewer sows but their litters are larger so he raises about as many pigs as before.

Christmas Story Ready For Kiddies

Variety of New Books at Library

"Angel in the Woods," by Dorothy Lathrop is one of five new children's books which are available at the Mansfield Public library. This illustrated selection is especially appropriate for this season of the year since it tells a Christmas story about a toy angel.

In the story the angel, holding a tiny candle, goes into the woods to find gifts for the animals and others who are usually forgotten at Christmas. Wherever she goes miracles happen, such as snow melting and flowers blooming out of season.

Of all the puppies, LEO, THE LITTLE ST BERNARD was the finest. But also was the most mischievous, the one most often in trouble, and by far the most conceited. He didn't think he had to be good, when anyone could see at a glance how smart he was. He knew that when the time came he would prove to be the bravest and wisest rescue dog the monks had ever seen.

For Leo was one of the dogs meant to help the monks in the high mountain passes of Switzerland to rescue travelers who were lost in the snow. The other puppies tried to be good, and to learn so they would be chosen, and Leo was always "going to." But he played too long, did one trick too many and when the monks came they took Rollo instead. What happened then, as Leo set out to prove himself a fine dog and how he did it makes one of the best stories of all that Dorothy L'Hommedieu has written.

FOR TRAIN FANS

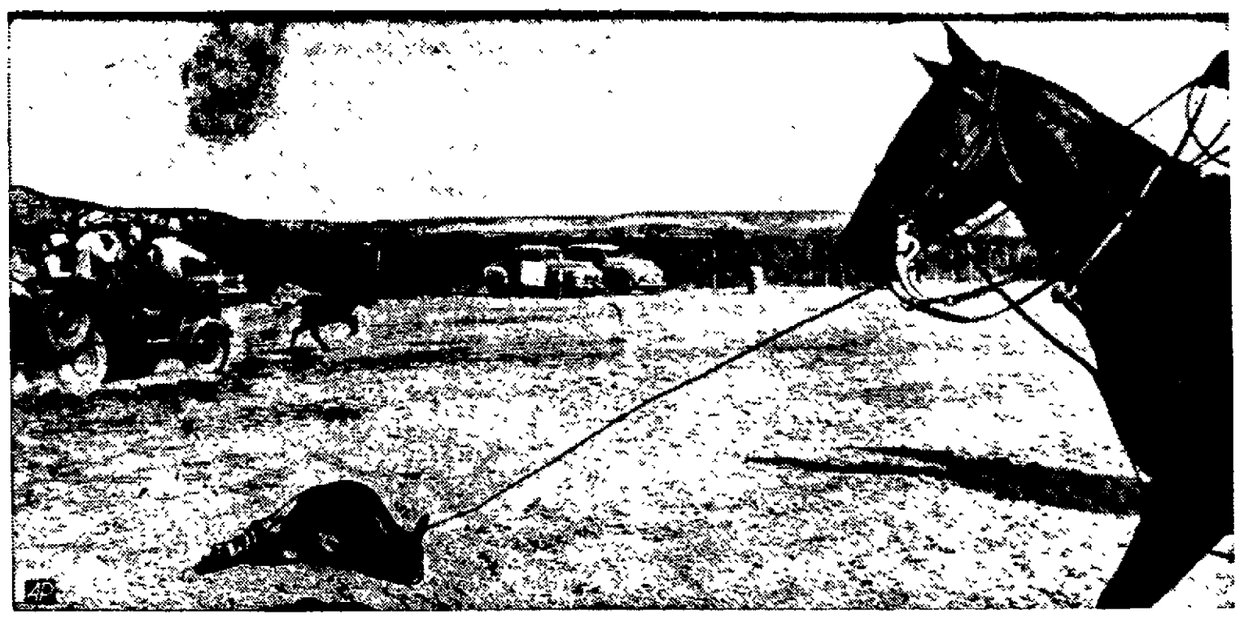
Let's get out of the snow for awhile and take a train ride with Elizabeth Olds in RIDING THE RAILS. Here is the train book you've been waiting for. The endpapers, to start before the beginning, are covered with the names of railroads. Do you thrill to the sound of the names "Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe," "Florida East Coast," "Bangor and Aroostook" and the Delaware Lackawana"? If you do, just gaze at those end papers for a bit and you'll be in the mood to continue.

Here is the romantic, exciting story of railroads, their building, their history, the men who made them and what they are like today. The book has lots and lots of pictures, enough to satisfy those who don't read very much yet.

Freddy is an old friends to many of you already. Those of you who have read "To and Again," "More To and Again," "Freddy the Magician," "Freddy and the Ignoramas" and "Adventures of Freginald," don't need to be told any more than that we have a new "Freddy book."

This one is called FREDDY GOES CAMPING and you can judge from the title what kind of adventures are involved. Freddy is a pig, who lives with his animal friends on Mr. Bean's farm, but a pig like no other you've ever seen. All the "Freddy books" are by Walter Brooks.

The last book this week is A CIRCUS OF OUR OWN, by Irmegarde Eberle. This is the story of the Mundys—Tim, Pam and Cappy—who loved circuses. They never missed one that came within miles of their home. Buying a kangaroo gave them an idea. They went to Africa to collect animals for their own circus. On the way they met Okar Zeekle, who taught them to speak and understand animal language, which was a great help. The story is pure nonsense, but delightful nonsense.



OLD AND NEW—While rider on pony at right holds calf he has roped, cowboys in jeep demonstrate newer technique as they go after another during a roping demonstration at the Frank McMullan ranch near Big Lake, Texas.

Grocer Takes Stand In 'Hot Ham' Case

LANCASTER —(INS)—Grocer Marion E. Nihiser, accused of receiving meat stolen from the Swift and company plant in Columbus, was to take the stand in his own defense today in Lancaster's celebrated "hot ham" case.

David Halderman of Lancaster, indicted for theft of the meat, testified yesterday he had sold Nihiser 40 fresh hams and about 60 smoked hams during last May for 40 and 50 cents a pound.

Too Risky?—Just Let Russel Do It

BY FRANK WATSON

CLEVELAND. —(INS)— Some Clevelanders who are too squeamish to tackle a difficult job themselves now have a new version to an old saying—"Let Russell do it."

Bob Russell, a 22-year-old sophomore at Western Reserve university in Cleveland, will, for a $2-an-hour fee, undertake any personal service for a caller if he considers it legal and it does not interfere with his studies.

Russell inserted a personal ad in a Cleveland paper last March, declaring, 'If it's too risky to do, call me after 4 p.m." He received 17 calls that first day, six of which he accepted.

First call, Russell said, came from a man who wanted him to drive his car from Cleveland to Detroit through a rainstorm while he took a train. That was probably his most difficult task.

"I got the idea for my personal service from an article about a group of New York veterans who called themselves 'Risk Inc.' They started their unique service when they agreed to paint a church steeple which threatened to topple over at any minute," Russell explained.

Since that first ad, Russell has received about 50 calls. He has reseued a cat from a roof, subdued a mad dog, driven seven cars to other cities, and returned two engagement rings.

GETS BLACK EYE

Russell particularly remembers returning one of the rings. When he told the irate fiance the engagement was broke, Russell collected a black eye to add to his fee, he said.

More enjoyable was a call from a couple from Atlanta, Ga., who read about his service in a Georgia newspaper and asked Bob and his girl friend to show them the town when they came to Cleveland.

But Russell has had some calls he refused to answer. They came from dubious characters who wanted him to operate outside the law, he said.

"One guy wanted to meet me and slip some damaging photographs into another man's pockets while he was eating lunch. Naturally, I refused.

"A woman wanted to meet me at a hotel to help her get some letters from her husband as evidence in a divorce suit. I turned that down, too," Russell continued.

Russell gave no names or details to the two cases mentioned above as he emphasized he would turn down any other calls demanding illegal action.

"When people don't want to do something, they call me," Russell explained. "About 50 per cent of the people will tackle a tough job themselves, 10 per cent will do it if they have to, and 40 per cent will let someone else do it. I get the 40 per cent.

Russell plans to start his part-time personal service again in another month. Now he is employed in a Cleveland printing plant.

An ex-Navy radioman, Russell is majoring in speech at WRU and holds a civil aeronautics license for speed key and hand key operation. He is undecided between a career before a microphone or a full time business with his personal service.

Settle Case For $300

A common pleas court action for $567 was settled yesterday for $300. The suit, claiming breach of contract, had been brought by Frank A. and Edna Arnold, 131 West First street, against George and Barbara Scholler, Mansfield, R. D. 4.

After a short hearing in court yesterday the parties left the courtroom and reached a settlement.

The action grew out of the sale of an 80-acre farm in Monroe township by the Arnolds to the Schollers. The Arnolds claimed that they were not permitted to harvest eight acres of red clover, or to live on the farm for a 60-day period after the sale, as agreed.

Attorney C. H. Henkel represented the Arnolds while the Schollers did not have an attorney. Scholler, during the brief hearing in court told his side of the story himself. The court rendered a judgment in accordance with the settlement.

To Ask Draft Deferments

WASHINGTON —(UP)—Selective Service headquarters will be asked soon to recommend draft deferments for most college students, it was revealed today.

The appeal will be made by five committees composed of educators, engineers, geologists and other scientists.

National Selective Service headquarters urged its local boards a month ago to grant one-year deferments to professional students of the healing arts—those who are studying to be doctors, dentists, veterinarians or osteopaths. This request was based upon recommendations of a healing arts educational advisory committee.

Circus Artist Fractures Skull

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal. —(UP)—Jane Evans, 30, an acrobatic rider in a circus, was in San Bernardino county hospital with a fractured skull today and police said she apparently fell or jumped from a moving train.

Miss Evans, a sister-in-law of animal trainer Clyde Beatty, staggered into a ranch house at nearby Ontario yesterday, bruised and almost delirious. Her hair was matted and she said she remembered having a few beers with a male friend in Los Angeles, then jumped or fell from an automobile.

One-Man Grand Jury At Work

KALAMAZOO, Mich. —(UP)— A one-man grand jury started its investigation today into a raid admittedly staged by the CIO United Steel Workers union on the strike-bound Shakespeare plants.

Thomas Shane, regional director of the steel workers, admitted he was in the group of 200 to 400 men that invaded the plants Wednesday. Police said they injured eight workers, overturned a dozen cars, burned one and terrorized employes.

Miss Wentz In Contest

Mansfield Singer To Go to Columbus

Miss Beverly Wentz, young Mansfield dramatic soprano, will enter the 11th biennial contest for student musicians sponsored by the National Federation of Music clubs.

Miss Wentz, daughter of Mrs. Linnie A. Wentz, 200 Lind avenue, was graduated from Senior high school and has appeared in a number of community performances, including the Amvets minstrels.

She is a pupil of M[illegible] MacDonald and is soloist at the First Church of Christ.

The 1949 musical contests for this area will be held Feb 18 in Columbus. Date for filing is Feb. 1. Miss Wentz must prepare a 20-minute program, including an aria from a standard opera or oratorio, one or more French, German or Italian art songs to consume not more than 10 minutes and at least one of the group to be sung in the original language; one or more numbers by America composers to consume at least eight minutes playing time.

The young students contest is one of two sponsored by the National Federation of Music clubs. The other - the young artists contest for singers between 25 and 35 years old.

In the student contest, in which Miss Wentz will sing, there is no national competition, contests run only through state and district auditions.

Demand Pay Boost

BARBERTON —(AP)— The Barberton Teachers association wants the school board to grant flat $100-a-month pay increases starting Jan. 1. Edmund Queen, association president and Barberton high school instructor, said the $100 plan was one of several put up for consideration by the school system's 180 teachers.

KILLED BY AUTO

COLUMBUS —(AP)— An automobile killed Marion M. Kasalo, 60, last night near his home.

Rurals Face Fire Peril

ST. PAUL, Minn. (U. P.) —If you are a farmer, fire is a greater potential danger for you than it is for your cousin in the crowded city.

At least, that is the story told by statistics at the University of Minnesota agricultural extension service here.

Only about one-fifth of the people in this country live on farms, yet fully one-third of the number killed each year by fire live on farms, the statistics show.

In 1947, 11,000 persons died by fire in the U. S. Of these, 3,500 were farm residents.

Monetarily, fire loss last year came to $700,000,000. Twelve per cent of the loss was on farms.

According to extension officials, the main reason for the higher toll on farms is the higher number of fire hazards to be found there than in cities. Farmers store larger quantities of gasoline and kerosene; improperly cured hay is another hazard not common to the city; lightning is more dangerous in the country than in the city. And cities are better protected by organized fire-fighting units.

Smash Dope Party

CLEVELAND —(AP)—Five persons were arrested and a sixth was shot in a raid on a marijuana-smoking party last night. Detective Herbert D. Burmeister identified the wounded man as William R. Gordon, 28, shot in the right thigh. The raid took place in a hotel annex. Thirty-one cigarettes, hypodermic needles, and a syringe were confiscated.

Party Quiet, Then Police Go Walking

DETROIT (U.P.)—Two Detroit patrolmen had things easy when they were called in to break up a noisy Saturday night party.

They toned down the party-makers with no trouble at all. In fact, in less than 10 minutes they returned to the spot where they'd parked their scout car, feeling quite satisfied.

That was when they discovered someone had driven away with their car.

The scout car turned up later, in another part of town, its radiator and one wheel smashed and two tires flat.

Meanwhile, the patrolmen trudged back to the station on foot.

Yank Radio Sways Berlin

BERLIN —(U.P.) —The American-operated broadcasting station RIAS, beamed to the Soviet zone, has become a powerful weapon in the Berlin cold war.

Transmitting stright news reports and "Voice of America" casts, RIAS has taken 80 per cent of the Berlin listening public away from Soviet-operated Radio Berlin, a military government analysis claimed.

In addition to its blanket Berlin coverage, RIAS operates a 75,000 watt short wave transmitter located in the U. S. zone and beamed toward eastern Europe.

Little RIAS is the only anti-Communist radio sender behind the "iron Curtain."

HANG FOUR GERMANS

Madison Host to Shelby Cagers Tonight

Cuff Stuff

By Fred Tharp

(News-Journal Sports Editor)

MADISON'S 1949 football team will play on new sod . . . the Ram grid was plowed up yesterday and was scheduled to be seeded today . . . For the first time next season, the Rams will not practice and play on the same gridiron . . A practice strip will be fixed up beyond the Ram stadium . . . Tug Wilson, the Big Nine athletic boss, tosses a little cold water on the so-called experts who figure the Cleveland Browns would have little trouble with the top National league teams . . . Tug feels the Chicago Bears are superior to Paul Brown's lads . . . But it would be an interesting contest . . . The thing may come about next year if one of the leagues does not operate and the Browns go into the National . . . Joe "Gluefingers" Letizia tells us he has the big Roy Gale trophy he won at Monday's N-J grid banquet on display . . . He won't tell us where but says we couldn't miss it . . . Ken Nouse, Loudonville will get his third Wooster college football letter at the Scot athletic banquet Dec. 6 . . . Johnny Lujack, the rookie Bear quarterback is knitting a sweater for his wife.

★

WONDER WHEN some company will invent a calculator to record football lineup changes . . . Against Indiana, Michigan made 300 changes . . . At Army, the defensive and offensive units drill on separate fields and get separate sets of signals . . . Each unit has its own coaching staff with Red Blaik, the head guy, supervising the work . . . So it is now possible for a football fellow to play three years without making a tackle and yet make All-America.

★

THIS SEEMS to be about time to wind up the regular session of pigskin prognostications via the old stogie . . . And get started on that Bowl trail . . . Last week's sketchy program found the Stuffer hitting on 35, missing eight and getting five ties. . . . For the season that makes a record of 608-173-39 . . . Hopping lightly over the "regular" games we see Notre Dame over Southern California, Alabama over Auburn, Vanderbilt over Miami, Clemson over The Citadel, New Mexico over Arizona State and Utah State over San Diego State.

On the Bowl front:

Glass Bowl—Toledo over Oklahoma City.

Great Lakes Bowl—John Carroll over Canisius.

Shrine Bowl—Texas Mines over Hawaii.

Refrigerator Bowl — Missouri Valley over Evansville.

Lion Bowl—Perkinston over Ellisville.

Papoose Bowl—Magnolia over East Oklahoma Aggies.

International Bowl—San Jose State over Mexico.

New Faces Grace Rams First Five

A veteran Shelby squad which opened its season by upsetting favored Fostoria will form the opposition for Madison high school's defending district champions tonight.

An overflow crowd is expected to jam its way into the Madison gym for the Rams' first game of the season. Not a single familiar face will be in Madison court clothes.

Four players better known for football and one prominent as a baseball pitched will make up the Madison starting lineup.

FOOTBALL MEN

Ed Chelski and Larry Secrist, a pair of football backfield men will be at the guards while Jim Brightbill and Joe Distl, both ends on the gridiron, will be at the forwards. Ray "Dutch" Bader who has pitched for the American Legion juniors and Mansfield Grays will play the center spot.

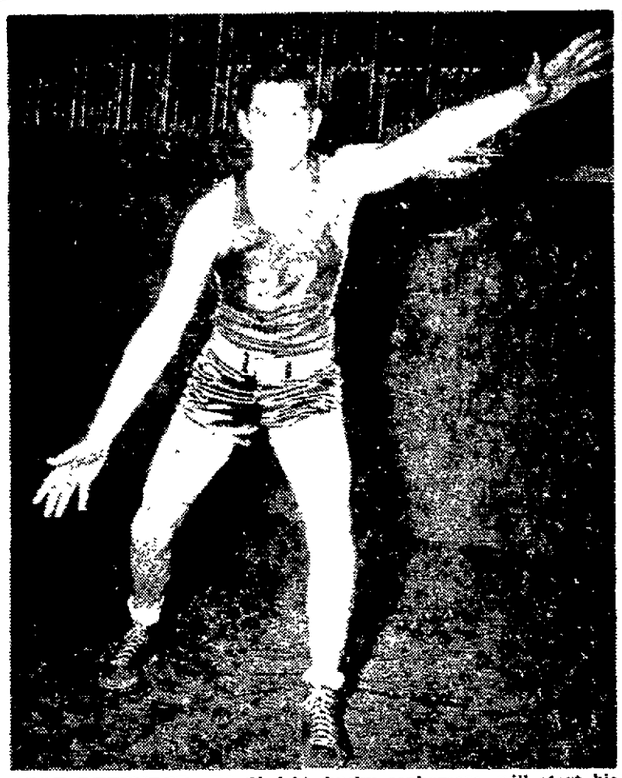
None of the present squad members earned letters last year. The game will also mark the coaching debut of Blaine Dowler, who took over as head basketball and baseball coach.

Shelby on the other hand has seven men off last year's first ten back in action. Three of them entered double column scoring figures in the 54-50 victory over Fostoria Tuesday. Dick Utz and Onie, the forwards, got 19 and 15 points, respectively while Stan Cronenwett at center pushed in ten.

Chuck Williams is back as the Whippets varsity coach, while Larry Swackhammer will tutor the Shelby side of the 7:30 p. m. preliminary.

★

MADISON will "break" out new basketball uniforms for tonight's games. The suits are green with white numerals and have green and white peppermint stripes down the sides.



ABLE DEFENDER—Ed Chelski, husky sophomore, will start his first basketball game at Madison high tonight when the Rams open their season against a strong Shelby quintet. Chelski, a defensive specialist, appeared in several varsity games last year as a sub but did not earn a letter.—(News-Journal staff photo)

Little Brown Jug Fee Set

DELAWARE —(INS)— Managers of the Little Brown Jug pacing classic, annual feature of the Delaware county fair grand circuit meet, warned today that a $100 fee is due for all candidates for the 1950 jug.

Owners of colts eligible to the big race for three-year-old pacers must make their payments by Dec. 15 to H. C. Thomson of Delaware, secretary of the Little Brown Jug society.

On Jan. 1, a payment of $250 is due on candidates for the 1949 race. This year's jug was worth nearly $50,000 and Thompson expects next year's to exceed that value by a substantial sum.

Butler Ex-High Five Wins, 38-32

Butler Ex-Highs defeated Shiloh Alumni, 38-32, in an independent game played last night in the Butler high school gym. Reserves of the two games played a preliminary with Butler winning 31-27.

Dayton Turns Down Bowl Bid

DAYTON — (AP) — The football Flyers of the University of Dayton will spend the Christmas holidays at home and not chasing a bowl victory.

The team voted yesterday against accepting invitations to play either in the Camellia bowl game Dec. 30 at Lafayette, La., or the Basin bowl at Odessa, Tex. The latter already had been turned down by a western Ohio neighbor, Miami university of Oxford.

The Rev. Charles L. Collins, athletic director, said the players rejected the invitations because they wanted to be with their families during the Christmas period or had vacation jobs.

Brissie Signs Up

PHILADELPHIA — (U.P.) — Southpaw Pitcher Lou Brissie, who won 14 games and lost 10 in his rookie year with the Philadelphia Athletics, last season, signed his 1949 contract with the club yesterday.

100,000 Fans Ticketed To Watch Irish, Trojans

By BOB MYERS

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—There was a slight quake and a shake out in east Los Angeles today. It wasn't an earth tremor. It was the Notre Dame football team rolling into town.

There was a bit of shaking across the broad expanses of the entire city, too—heads shaking in negative fashion. They reflected the attitude of most of the supporters of the Cardinal and Gold of the University of Southern California.

The Trojans, said the head wagglers, might put up a good battle against the feared, famous, fightin' Irish from South Bend in the 20th renewal of their grid warfare tomorrow.

MAY BE CLOSER

But there was nothing to warrant hope for anything except perhaps a score closer than last year's 38-7 walloping. Even this was hazardous thinking because the 1948 Trojan eleven, on paper, anyhow, isn't even rated as good as the one last year.

The lure of the Irish, with its T-style attack functioning behind Frank Tripucka and aided and abetted by such men as squat Emil Sitko, John Pinelli and mates, plus the visitors' record of no defeats in 27 games, is enough to stamp the game as a sell-out weeks ago.

Good weather is in prospect, albeit maybe a little too warm for Notre Dame. The $5 ticket holders—and there are no cheaper seats than five bucks—seem certain to put attendance over the 100,000 mark.

LIKE BOWL GAME

This series is like the Rose Bowl game; the people will pack the joint no matter who plays or the chances of either team winning or losing.

Coach Jeff Cravath has brought his Troys up as far as he can. The rest is up to them. They were routed last Oct. 2 by Ohio State, 20-0. They barely got by Rice, 7-0. They began to look good as the season progressed, and played well, if losing ball, against Oregon (8-7), and unbeaten California (13-7). Team morale is good, even high.

To date, the Trojans have scored 128 points and held nine opponents to 73. Notre Dame has accumulated 306 points to the collective enemy's 79.

Dearman 5 Takes Lead In B Loop

Fourth-place Liederkranz gave the high-flying Mansfield Rug and Linoleum team a bowling lesson last night and knocked it out of the Commercial B league lead.

Liederkranz swept three games from the pace-setters while Dearman's Transportation was moved into the top spot by administering the same treatment to Zitzer's Maytag. Dearman's now holds a one-game advantage.

Individual honors in the league went to John Waldman of Lions club who had a brilliant 263 second game. It was sandwiched between scores of 180 and 191 to give him a 634 total, easily the best of the night.

ON HONOR ROLL

Two other men went over the 600 mark. Harold Selby led the axe-wielding for Liederkranz with 179-220-212—611. Phil Warga hit 219-192-193—604 for Ingram-Martin.

Just under the honor roll level were some other good scores. Nick Weber of Liederkranz had a 234 third game and 585 total. Cliff Forsythe of Ringside had 215 and 583, Ed Burger, also Ringside, posted 215 and 571, and Win Cleckner of Oak Park Tavern a 570.

★

The Women's Commercial A league had a fine night with no fewer than nine women going over 500. Helen Beeber led the parade with 168-195-192—555. Lena Aston was runnerup with a 549, followed by Sue Humphrey, 527; Dot McDevitt, 516, Hazel Hilborn, 515; Kay Stirtzinger, 512, Kate Warga, 512; Helen Wilhelm, 503 and Helen Kemle, 503.

Donna Schuster had the high single game, a 221 effort, but fell below the select circle when she rolled other scores of 140 and 137 for a 498 total.

Ohio Sports Center moved to a four-game lead by taking three games from City News while Mansfield Beverage took a sweep from Richland Printing.

★

Industrial Women failed to hit in the scoring strata on the Colony slides. Sis DeWeese anchored the Dominion Electric team with 136-181-146—463 followed by her teammate Audrey Campbell with 154-136-171—461.

Opal Race, Lumbermens, had 440 and Ruth Simpson, Gorman-Rupp, 417. Lumbermens No. 2 had the top single game of 740 and league-leading Dominion led the teams with 2,069.

★

Bob Curren just missed the honor roll in the Tappan Stove league with a 224-198-168—590. Ed Rogers trailed with 164-237-176—577. Other top scores were: Virgil Shaffer, 539; Jake Streitmater, 537; W. R. Mabee, 529 and Carl Froats, 5528.

Serge Bonecutter was consistent with games of 137, 137 and 139.

Veeck Contributes To Building Fund

SANDUSKY —(AP)— President Bill Veeck of the Cleveland Indians has contributed $200 to the fund being raised to build a home for Mrs. Bernard Millis, a window with nine children.

A total of $2,581 has been contributed so far.

Mrs. Millis' husband and Milan businessman were killed in a plane crash while returning from a world series game in Cleveland.

Jewelry 5 Kayoes Defending Champs

Rogers Jewelry and Yuncker Sports stood atop the City A basketball league today after racking up their second victories of the season last night at John Simpson junior high school gym.

Deposed from the crown was the powerful Urschel Insurance team, last year's champs and expected to be a likely repeater this season. Urschel fell before Rogers, 36-30, last night while Yuncker's was nosing out Penn Auto, 40-39.

Martin Hardware took the measure of Richland Beverage, 35-32, in the other game.

Dick Casad, the slim Ontario high school coach, was the big gun in Rogers' upset of the Insurancemen. He counted four times from the field and made good on eight of 11 free throws for a 16 point total, the best of the night. It was the second victory for Rogers.

SPURT IN FOURTH

Yuncker's won its second game by virtue of a last quarter spurt. The game was tied 31-all going into the final period. Leroy Dill, who played for Yuncker's coach Fred Larue at Union high last year, set the pace for his old skipper with 11 points. Gene Theesen counted 14 and Ed Woodbury 10 for Penn.

Martin's Hardware made good on its first start of the year as Bruce McGinty and Fred Lewis counted seven points each. Jim Stahl of Richland Beverage dropped in 14.

Joe Novak's New PGA President

DUNEDIN, Fla. —(AP)— The Professional Golfers association of America has a new president in Joe Novak, but no change is likely in the policies under which the PGA prospered during the seven-year regime of Ed Dudley.

Novak has been PGA secretary under Dudley for three years.

Novak, 50-year-old pro at the Bel-Air club in Los Angeles for 21 years, won with ease over Horton Smith, Detroit pro, in yesterday's election.

Cleveland Trades Two Pitchers For Chicago's Papish

CHICAGO — (INS) — The Chicago White Sox today acquired pitchers Robert Kuzava and Ernest Groth from the Cleveland Indians in a straight player deal that sent Hurler Frank Papish to the world's champions.

Papish, a left-hander, pitched in 32 games for the White Sox last season and won two while losing eight.

Groth and Kuzava both worked last season for the Baltimore Orioles of the International league. Groth, a right-hander, won 12 and lost 12 while appearing in 29 games. He is 26 and comes from Beaver Falls, Pa.

Kuzava, a southpaw, appeared in 32 games, winning nine while losing 16. He is 25, and calls Lincoln Park, Mich., his home.

Debate About Brown and UCLA

By DAVIS J. WALSH

NEW YORK — (INS) — There seemed to be two oddly estranged schools of opinion today as to whether Paul Brown, football's Mr. Glamor-Puss of 1949, was or was not fixing to leave pro-league coaching for the campus at UCLA.

The negative side of the debate apparently was being drafted by a certain Wilbur Johns, athletic director at UCLA.

However, I feel as yet no impelling reason at this time either to qualify or withdraw my various statements on the supposed situation, presented yesterday in all integrity, as follows:

There have been negotiations between UCLA spokesmen and the coach of Cleveland's Browns, with the likelihood being strong that these either had been consummated or soon would be.

This feeling of imminence, it was added, had been heightened by seemingly valid stories that Brown had tentatively discussed the UCLA situation with Tom Stidham. He did so with a view to having the latter go along as his first assistant.

It was further stated that money seemed no object—that Brown appeared willing to take a loss from his current Cleveland wage, allegedly was of a mind, in fact, to bravely face adversity at $25,000 a year.

Mr. Johns, in reply, seemed rather intent upon signifying that this was a lot of tosh—without, however, directly saying so.

Be that as it might, the account was unequivocally declared on this end to be substantially correct. Moreover, the probity and general accuracy of the source are quite the same now, as then, regardless of developments.

That statement, of course, is subject to future contingencies, beyond the control of whim, fact or circumstance.

It's possible that Brown, whose club has won 16 straight and survived 22 without defeat in the all America conference, may change his mind—or that whoever he has been dickering with may change theirs.

It's even possible, let's say, that Los Angeles, in a moment of reverie, might enact an ordinance forbidding all men named Brown to pass the city limits, unless wearing a slave bracelet or accompanied by machine-gun Jack McGurn.

The latter, when last seen, is said by some authorities (Sic.) to have been very noticeably dead just to show how the above might lead to complications.

Anyhow, the reputed Paul Brown-UCLA merger definitely can happen, if both parties remain agreeable to the idea. And, according to various indications, they should and apparently do.

Mansfield Gets Sectional Basketball Meet

Senior High Opens Sked At Elyria

The Class A sectional high school basketball tournament will be held in Mansfield next March, it was announced today.

W. J. McConnell, of Fremont, secretary of the Northwest district athletic board, said that seven teams will compete in the joust to be held in Senior high gym.

Exact dates have not been set up but the tourney must be completed by March 5. Mansfield, Madison, Galion, Shelby, Ashland, Crestline, and Bucyrus will compete.

HALF-DISTRICT

The section will, in effect, be a half-district. Winner of the tourney here will advance to the Sandusky district joust along with the winner from the Sandusky sectional and runner-up from Findlay and Bowling Green. The local runnerup will move to Findlay where it will be in competition with winners from Findlay and Defiance, and the Toledo runnerup.

Winner of these four-team, two-day tournaments will then advance into the regional tournament, McConnell said.

The tourney here will be the first sectional ever held in this district. Previously the entire district tournament had been played at Sandusky. The change was made, however, to shorten the travelling distance for competing schools.

Average travelling distance for the schools competing here will be 13 miles. Ashland and Galion come that distance, with Crestline and Shelby travelling 12 and Bucyrus 25.

★

The Senior high basketballers of Coach Vern Hoffman open their 1948-49 season tonight at Elyria. Elyria has only one letterman while Norb Shibinki and Paul Ferguson won Tyger letters last year. Mansfield won a race horse duel from Elyria, 59 to 52, last season.

Al Struck is the Elyria veteran.

The 28-man Bengal squad was scheduled to leave for Elyria at 4 45 p. m. by bus Coach Fred Staub's sophomores will play in the preliminary contest against the Elyria reserves.

Hoffman this morning was undecided on his starting lineup. Shibinski and Ferguson will hold down two spots while the others will go to A. C. Jenkins, Ed Schmitt, Willie Fowler, Jim Anderson or Howie Tipper. The Tyger coach plans liberal substitution.

Appleseeders Get Two Wins From Union

Johnny Appleseed junior high school opened its basketball season with a pair of victories over Union high yesterday afternoon in the Appleseed gym.

Little Freddie Zahn led the Pioneer varsity to a 26-18 victory over Union's reserves, while the host eighth graders racked up a 15-7 win over Union freshmen.

Zahn, five-foot, five-inch guard who quarterbacked the undefeated Appleseed football team, dropped in five field goals and a free throw for 11 points Center Joe Diemer scored four times from the field.

In the eighth grade game it was Brandt who paced Appleseed to victory with five field goals for ten points The Pioneers play their next game against the Mt. Vernon reserves next Thursday at Mt. Vernon.

Citation Goes Against Three

SAN BRUNO, Calif. — (AP) — Citation, one of the world's greatest horses, makes his west coast debut today so heavily favored Bonforan track won't decide whether to limit wagering in the five-horse race until noon

With Eddie Arcaro aboard, the champion is entered with four other three-year-olds — competing for the smallest purse he has sought this year, the $5,000 challenge purse. The $3,100 net would add his winnings for this year to $677,670, and his total take to $833,350. The world record: Stymie's $911,335, which may not stand much longer.

Hal Anderson Signs To Pilot Birds Again

COLUMBUS — (INS) Hal Anderson will get a third chance at the American association pennant as manager of the Columbus Red Birds

Team President A Bannister announced yesterday that Anderson had been signed to pilot the Red Birds in the 1949 season, under a one-year contract

Yarosz Fights Jake LaMotta In 10-Rounder

NEW YORK — (AP) — Tommy Yarosz gets his big chance tonight against ring-wise Jake Lamotta who rules a 1 to 2 favorite to win their 10-round duel at Madison Square Garden.

New financial worlds will open for 26-year-old Yarosz from Monaca, Pa., if he can upset the "Bronx Bull." Lamotta needs a convincing victory to re-establish his ranking. He was handed a surprising fourth-round technical knockout by Billy Fox last year.

Among the plums that may await the winner is an over-the-weight match this winter with Marcel Cerdan, the middleweight champion. However, the margin must be sharp and decisive for the winner to rate even a non-title shot at the champ.

Both will be on trial with some 10,000 fans who are expected to pay $40,000 for the privilege. After the Fox debacle, the fans want to see how much Lamotta has left. Many are skeptical about Yarosz' ability to mingle with the topnotchers, despite his fine record.

College Football Takes Final Regular Sked Fling

NEW YORK—(AP)—The college football season takes a tiny, final fling on widely scattered gridirons this week end before plunging into the year-end bowls.

Some 100,000 customers will jam Memorial coliseum at Los Angeles tomorrow to watch Notre Dame tangle with Southern California. The Irish will be heavily favored to wind up their third straight season without a defeat.

In Charleston, S. C., Clemson, one of the three other major all-winning teams of the year, will help the Citadel dedicate a new stadium in what should be a flurry of Tiger touchdowns. By winning Clemson can capture the Southern conference championship

And at Birmingham, Ala., Auburn and the University of Alabama will meet on a football field for the first time since 1907.

Two games are scheduled tonight Vanderbilt, with seven straight victories, plays the University of Miami at Miami, Fla., and the University of Richmond visits Rollins college at Winter Park, Fla.

EIGHT BOWL GAMES

Eight bowl games are on the week-end card. Contests today and tonight include Oklahoma City vs. Toledo in the Glass Bowl at Toledo; Missouri Valley vs Evansville, Ind.; Florida A. and M. vs Union of Richmond, Va., in the Orange Blossom Bowl at Miami; Hampton vs. Wilberforce in the Fish Bowl at Norfolk, Va., and Magnolia A. and M. vs. Eastern Oklahoma A. and M. in the Papoose Bowl at Oklahoma City.

On Saturday John Carroll meets Canisius in the Great Lakes Bowl at Cleveland; San Francisco State and Southern Louisiana university meet in the Fruit Bowl at San Francisco, and Emporia Teachers and Southwest Missouri Teachers tangle in the Mo-Kan Bowl at Kansas City.

Fleming Knocks In 143 Runners

COLUMBUS — (INS) — First Baseman Les Fleming helped slug the Indianapolis Indians to the American association pennant in 1948 with a league-leading total of 143 runs batted in.

Another helpful player, according to official statistics issued today by the Howe News Bureau, was Fleming's teammate, T. Cramer Beard, who had the most walks, 128.

Louisville's home-run hitting Jerry Witte had the most strikeouts, 122.

Illini Cagers Battle Butler Team Tonight

CHICAGO—(AP)—Illinois opens the Big Nine's weekend program of basketball competition with non-conference teams in Champaign tonight when the Illini entertain Butler. It will be the season's oepner for both squads.

Both the Illini and the Bulldogs from Indianapolis will present an all-veteran lineup. It will be the 13th meeting between the two schools, with Butler holding a 7 to 5 edge in the series.

Tomorrow, seven western conference teams will meet non-league opponents. Michigan, defending Big Nine champion, will play host to Michigan State; Western Michigan goes to Northwestern; Ohio State entertains Butler; Western Illinois travels to Minnesota; De Pauw is at Indian; Colorado College invades Iowa; and Marquette goes to Madison to play Wisconsin.

On Sunday, Michigan meets Toledo at Ann Arbor. Purdue swings into action on Monday with a game with Detroit at Lafayette.

Ready For 1950

KENT—(AP)—Kent State university's $950,000 field house will be completed in time for the 1950 basketball season, Prof. Frank Ballenger, director of health and physical education, said today.

Once-Defeated Lexington Battles Union 5 Tonight

The second session of the Richland county basketball league will be in swing tonight with a full four-game card.

One of the four teams which won opening games is sure to fall as Union travels to Lexington. The host Minutemen must be favored in this contest, but Union has won its only two starts without being pressed. Lexington has five victories out of six starts, including a loop win over Bellville. Union won its league opener from Butler.

Another fine game on the program will be at Bellville where the Blue Jays attempt to stop an invading Plymouth team. The Pilgrim won their opener behind a 26 point outburst by Desmond Donnenwirth.

Ontario, the other undefeated club, goes to Butler in quest of its second league victory. Lucas and Shiloh, both seeking their first triumph clash on the Shiloh floor.

Standings:

	W	L	Pct	Pts	Op
Ontario	1	0	1.000	62	20

Northern Basketball Loop Opens Saturday

The Northern Grade school league will open tomorrow morning at the Friendly House with two games on the schedule

The West Fifth Lions are to meet the Bowman Tigers at 10 a m with the Newman Red Birds and Bushnell Tigers colliding in the second game.

2 Grid Guards To Miss Game

CLEVELAND — (INS) — Weldon Humble and Bob Gaudio probably will be out of the Cleveland Browns' lineup Sunday when the All-America conference champs tackle the Brooklyn Dodgers in the Bronx.

Humble, a defensive guard, suffered a pulled muscle at San Francisco last Sunday and Gaudio, an offensive guard, isn't expected to be fully recovered from a leg injury which kept him out of the '49er game.

Otto Graham, who led the Brownies to victory last week although he had a badly swollen knee, went through a brisk two-hour workout yesterday.

Sunday's contest will be the last regular season game for the defending champs, who will meet the eastern division champion, as yet undetermined, in a playoff game in Cleveland either Dec. 12 or 19.
